Guatemala Cops Kill 3 Students In Crackdown

Red Agitators Blamed As University Youths Protest New Edicts

GUATEMALA (AP)—Police firing submachineguns and pistols to break up a demonstration against the government's crackdown on Red agitation, killed three university students and wounded 19 last night on Guatemala City's main street.

The victims were in a parade of several hundred students marching toward the government palace to protest curtailment of civil liberties under the "state of alarm" imposed Sunday by President Castillo Armas' regime.

About half the marchers were girls. One girl was wounded. So was a policeman.

The state of alarm put Guatemala under a form of martial law. The government said it was necessary to prevent "seditious disorders" plotted by Communists.

Soon after the shooting, the government ordered censorship of news dispatches sent abroad.

The students marched defiantly from a meeting at the university. Officials had sent them a warning message that they would be "swept from the streets" if they attempted to stage a protest.

A WITNESS said a detachment of about 20 policemen, drawn up across the avenue outside a movie theater, ordered the marchers to halt.

"The police fired into the air," the witness reported. "The students kept coming, singing the national anthem."

"Police then started firing into the marchers, while police reinforcements rushed up."

"As soon as the firing started, (Continued on Page Two)

Latin Tutor Says Language Not 'Dead'

OXFORD (AP)—Latin is far from a dead language, and it is getting livelier every year, says Miss Belle Gould of Texas.

Miss Gould, who teaches the subject in high school at Henderson, Tex., says there is a wave of enthusiasm for the language of old Rome which shows up in the fast growth of the Junior Classical League, now holding its third annual convention at Miami University here.

"You just can't separate the growth of this organization from the new interest in Latin in a lot of our high schools," she said.

She said there were 478 at the first convention in Dallas, 547 last year in Des Moines, "and now we're over 900 here and everybody's too busy to stop and count up to find out exactly how many."

Miss Gould has shared in stirring up the Latin boom that has brought 41,000 league members. It started, she said, when "our own little group was printing up a little paper of its own. One time a few years ago, we just printed up a whole mess of extra copies and sent them all over the country."

"In that issue we had a saying: We thought these classics clubs in high schools ought to keep in touch."

Now that magazine, called Torch, is the league's official publication.

2-Year Steel Contract Hinted

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel industry and union negotiating teams met again today amid increasing speculation concerning a compromise three-year contract.

That would be two years less than the term that management has proposed and that the United Steelworkers have rejected. It would be one year longer than the Steelworkers have settled for in the past.

Management officials recently have refrained from using the word "final" in reference to their five-year proposal. And some union circles in Pittsburgh have asked the union negotiators to accept a three-year settlement.

Safecrackers Hit Southend Metal Concern

Undetermined Amount Of Money Missing; Job "Professional"

Circleville city police today were trying to pick up the trail of safecrackers who broke into offices of a Southend metal firm and escaped with an undetermined amount of money.

The break-in was reported from the Circleville Iron and Metal Works on S. Clinton St. Julius Gordon, co-owner of the company, reported about 8:30 a. m. today that offices of the firm had been entered sometime during the night.

The safe had been broken open and parts of the premises ransacked.

Police Chief Elmer Merriman said:

"The job looked very professional. We hope to be able to tell more about it in the near future."

THE AMOUNT of money taken was known to be considerable, but police said it had yet to be estimated.

A bar across a window in the rear of the building, as well as the window itself, were broken to gain entrance.

City Patrolmen Bob Temple and Don Adams were among those who joined the investigation.

Killer Said Seen In Area Near Columbus

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state highway patrol is conducting a manhunt in a wooded area northeast of nearby Westerville for a man described as killer Alfred Wilson.

Heavily armed patrolmen searched the area from the air and on the ground for the fugitive slayer of three Trumbull County residents.

Wilson is the 37-year-old truck driver who flew into a rage over the departure of his common law wife, Juanita, and is accused of going on a shooting rampage Thursday night.

Victims were two of his wife's sisters and a teenage girl he had never seen before.

The patrolmen, from Westerville, Delaware and the Franklin County and Delaware County sheriff's offices converged on the area shortly after a woman refused food to a man she later "positively identified" from a picture as Wilson.

The state highway patrol, however, said the identification was "vague."

Meanwhile, arsenal guards reported today they saw a man climb over the fence into the Ravenna Arsenal.

Portage and Trumbull County deputies, also searching for Wilson, hurried to the scene.

Wilson has been reported several times since Thursday nights killings but previous tips uncovered no clues to the whereabouts of the hunted truck driver.

The Columbus area search was being conducted near the Kigore Manufacturing Co., northwest of Westerville.

A report by a 65-year-old woman caretaker of a home on the Three C highway just north of Westerville touched off the manhunt.

Vets Pensions Bills Bringing House Debate

Legion-VFW Proposal Could Cost $148 Billion By Year 2000, Belief

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaders in the pensions-for-veterans drive brought out a new, one-half cost proposal today as the House headed into an anything-can-happen battle over a bill that could annually cost billions of dollars.

Rep. Edmondson (D-Okla.) said the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars will back a $90-a-month pension instead of the $105 version originally approved by the House Veterans Committee.

This, plus other agreed-on cuts in the committee bill, would chop first-year costs to little more than two thirds of a billion dollars. Without this the administration estimates the first year's tab at $14 billion and a total of $148 billion by the year 2000.

The last-minute switch reflected leaders' opinions that even in an election year the bigger bill hadn't a chance of becoming law.

Chairman Olin E. Teague (D-Tex.), with the support of Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.), pushed a rival plan aimed mainly at helping seriously disabled veterans. Providing less pension liberalization, it would cost about $200 million the first year.

House Republicans caucused yesterday and decided each member would be free to vote as he pleased on the political issue.

Some Democratic leaders other than Rayburn were reported favoring "laughing through" the full committee bill on the theory that the Senate or a late-session veto by President Eisenhower would kill it.

Overnight, there had been no word from the White House on the (Continued on Page Two)

Admiral King Rites Slated For Friday

PORTSMOUTH, N. H. (AP)—Funeral services for Fleet Adm. Ernest J. King, who died yesterday at the age of 77, will be held Friday at Washington National Cathedral with burial at the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The body will be taken by air to Washington today and will lie in state at the cathedral.

The World War II commander of the U.S. Navy died at Portsmouth Naval Hospital of acute heart failure induced by long blood pressure, from which he suffered for many years.

President Eisenhower noted the passing of his old friend with this statement issued at Walter Reed Army Hospital, where he is recovering from an operation that "the nation has lost a great American and an outstanding naval officer."

"As commander in chief of our naval forces and as chief of naval operations during World War II Adm. King carried his heavy responsibilities with courage, brilliance and devotion to duty."

In Lorain, Ohio, Mayor John Jaworski declared that the house at 113 Hamilton Avenue should be a memorial to Admiral King.

It is the birthplace of the admiral, and presently is occupied. The mayor proposes that the city buy the house. He said he would call a meeting within the next few days to discuss the idea. Jaworski said he would invite some of the citizens who in their youth had been playmates of the admiral.

Poll At Governors Conference Show Harriman Gaining Backing

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson appears likely to collect more than 400 overpowering presidential nominating votes from the 27 Democratic-controlled states represented at the 48th annual Governors Conference.

On the basis of an Associated Press survey of opinion of the governors or their representatives from those states which have Democratic chief executives, Stevenson has only to break even in 21 GOP-dominated states to wrap up his party's nomination on an early ballot at the Aug. 13 Chicago convention.

The strong reservoir of Stevenson support was disclosed despite what appeared to be an upsurge in the strength of Gov. Averell Harriman of New York in the wake of the practical demise of Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee as a challenging candidate.

Harriman harvested the prospect of gaining the backing of Kentucky's 30 votes, if Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler can win control of them and make some sort of agreement with the New York governor. Harriman said today no such agreement had been reached.

IN ADDITION, if he got Kentucky, Harriman would have most of New York's 38 votes, Oklahoma's 30 votes, if Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler can win control of them and make some sort of agreement with the New York governor. Harriman said today no such agreement had been reached.

Rhode Island Gov. Dennis J. Roberts called Stevenson "the best qualified man in either party for the presidency," adding that "he will win in November."

Tennessee Gov. Frank G. Clement is seeking an unopposed nomination which would rob Kefauver of a home base at the convention. Clement said he still stands on a previous statement that Stevenson is "the greatest candidate ever to be denied the presidency of the United States."

Texas Gov. Allan Shivers, who may not attend the convention, has said he is for Lausche and is against Stevenson.

Jap Science Records New U.S. 'Blast'

TOKYO (AP)—The United States may have set off another big nuclear blast today at the Bikini testing grounds, Japan's weather bureau reported.

The Central Meteorological Observatory said its instruments from Hokkaido in the north to Kyushu in the south picked up marked atmospheric pressure changes similar to those recorded after the May 21 test and again on May 28.

In Washington, an Atomic Energy Commission spokesman said there would be no comment. The spokesman noted the AEC had declined comment on a similar report May 28 and planned none on future reports of the same type.

He said that Lewis Strauss, AEC chairman, had announced previously that "about 10 tests would be carried out in the current series that began May 21."

First indications of a possible blast were earth tremors recorded on the seismographs at Matsushiro, in central Honshu, at 3:20 a. m. Just three hours later gauges began to pick up the slower-moving atmospheric pressure waves, and these continued for about 50 minutes, the observatory said.

As they had on May 21 and 28, the waves reportedly came from the direction of the Bikini Atoll, about 2,200 miles to the southeast.

Twining Gets To See Newest Soviet Supersonic Bomber

MOSCOW (AP)—Gen. Nathan Twining, U.S. Air Force chief of staff, has been given a look at a new Soviet bomber the Russians say can fly faster than sound.

The U.S. Air Force does not yet have such a supersonic bomber. The speed of sound varies from 760 miles an hour at sea level to about 663 miles an hour at altitudes above 35,000 feet.

The top U.S. airman, a group of his aides and British, French and other foreign military men were shown the new plane during a conducted tour of the closely guarded Kubinka air base, about 40 miles from Moscow.

Today the American and British air force toured another secret Soviet installation in the Moscow area, the Zhukovskiy Air Engineering Academy.

Little was known of this academy. Some sources said it was an aerodynamics laboratory. Others said they believed it was merely an engineering school for air officers. Reporters who tried to accompany the party were barred.

THE SAME thing happened Monday, when the visitors went to Kubinka Air Base.

Twining said later the new craft was a twin-engine, light attack bomber.

The foreign military men, who were invited here to see Russia's latest aviation achievements, were told the new bomber had never been shown before.

The visiting officers toured the base in jeeps, making only one stop while viewing more than 100 planes.

The stop came when Twining

'Lost' Documents May Bring Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said today the House should "determine if important statements of campaign contributions have been destroyed."

Bridges, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, made the suggestion after House Clerk Ralph R. Roberts said he assumed the documents in question had been "sold as scrap paper."

The documents are a statement of the campaign contributions filed by the treasurer of the Republican National Committee for 1952 and others filed by the Democrats for the years 1949-1952.

The Justice Department said the reports are needed in connection with "investigations."

Auto Inspection Law Is Predicted

AKRON (AP)—An official of the Ohio Highway Safety Council predicted today the state Legislature would pass a compulsory motor vehicle inspection law at its next regular session.

A similar bill was defeated in the last Legislature but Knight said the department is now "optimistic" it will become law.

GOP Half-Billion Bill Slated For Senate Ballot

Knowland Reports Ike Will OK Amount, But Not Full $1 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rival claims in the heated Senate battle over whether to increase Air Force funds above the amount asked by President Eisenhower agreed to a showdown today with Sen. Bridges (R-NH). They predicted it will be a close vote.

Senate Republican leader Knowland of California said the Eisenhower administration is sticking to its defense budget in the face of a Democratic move to add an extra $1 billion for the Air Force.

But Knowland also said that as against the Democratic proposal, a rival Republican plan by Bridges to increase Air Force funds by a half-billion dollars would be "more acceptable."

Knowland spoke with newsmen after Republican congressional leaders held their regular Tuesday legislative conference at the White House.

With President Eisenhower in the hospital, the GOP lawmakers met with Sherman Adams, the President's top aide, and other White House staff members.

KNOWLAND SAID the administration's position is that budget recommendations of the White House and the Joint Chiefs of Staff are adequate for the country's defense needs.

Knowland would not answer directly a question whether the President would accept the larger amount and not spend it.

There would be a precedent for that.

Former President Truman impounded $726,151,000 in funds Congress voted for the Air Force in the 1949-50 budget.

The money, part of the allotment for aircraft procurement, was turned over to the Air Force after the start of the Korean War.

Bridges is spearheading a Republican drive to limit to half a billion dollars the added money that would be voted the Air Force for the 12 months starting Sunday.

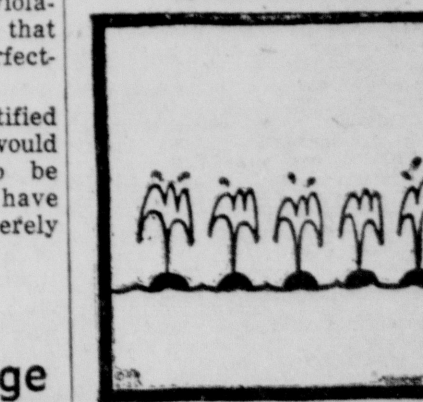

Sen. Chavez (D-NM), floor manager for the $35 billion annual defense money bill, voiced confidence the Senate would approve an extra $1.1 billion for the Air Force. The House voted a little less than $15½ billion.

"WHALES GIVING SCHOOL YELL"

In 1953 when my colleague, Dr. Schweine, was all hopped up about an idea he had for making Blubber Flavored Ice Cream, he was able to purchase a slightly used whale (deceased) for a bargain price. He got it from an Old Eskimo who only used it on week-ends for Harpoon practice. However, as the whale was in Alaska the transportation presented a problem. So Dr. Schweine arranged with a local sardine factory to pack the whale into a huge can for him. It took over 5,000 gallons of oil but it was worth it because it enabled Dr. S. to ship the whale back home. Up to now he hasn't taken it out of the can. But he plans to, just as soon as he can locate a forty-foot key to open it with.

various plans, although it previously expressed strong disapproval of the major parts of the committee bill.

That bill would provide non-service-connected pensions of $105 a month at age 65 for World War I, II, and Korean War veterans whose annual incomes are less than $1,400 if single or $2,700 if with dependents. The rate would be 20 per cent higher for those with at least 20 days overseas service.

IT WOULD ALSO raise compensation for service-connected injury generally by 10 to 15 per cent and increase payments to veterans' widows.

The new Legion - VFW plan would make a number of decreases in the committee bill, including dropping the pension to $90 a month and the overseas bonus to 10 per cent.

Teague's version would knock out the pension features except for a 5 per cent premium for overseas service and a raise from $135 to $150 in pensions to veterans seriously disabled. It would retain service-connected disability compensation increases including a rise from $181 to $250 a month in compensation to the totally disabled.

Under the present limited non-service-connected pension system a veteran can get $66.15 monthly at any age if permanently and totally disabled and if his income falls within the $1,400 and $2,700 ceilings. The rate goes up to $78.75 a month at age 65 or if he has been a pensioner continuously for 10 years.

More than 250 different kinds of birds and animals are found in the Great Smoky National park.

Ascension lies almost midway between South America and Africa.

Sheriff Radcliff Urges Parents To Make Swimmers Take Care

Taking note of two drownings in the district within the past few days, Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff issued a word of caution today for youngsters who forget safety rules in their enthusiasm for swimming.

In his warning, Sheriff Radcliff pointed out that the hottest weeks of the summer are still ahead, and that the swimming season is still young.

Sheriff Radcliff emphasized that youngsters should not swim alone in isolated sections. Even this precaution, however, failed to avert the district's two tragedies.

Die Makers Agree To New Contract

CINCINNATI — Production resumed today at the Electric Auto-Lite plant in nearby Evendale after the end of a two-week strike by tool and die makers.

The 150 strikers, members of the International Assn. of Machinists, agreed yesterday to accept a new one-year contract.

Plant officials asked employees to forego wage hikes for a year, and said the facility lost money for 2½ years. The alternative, they said, might be permanent closing of the plant.

Motorist To Be Questioned Soon On Details Of One-Car Accident

A 35-year old Clarksburg motorist, seriously injured when his car crashed into a building near Williamsport, may soon be questioned for details needed to fill out the story of the accident.

The motorist, James Dorrill, was reported "getting along all right" today in University Hospital, Columbus. He was taken there after the accident, which occurred last Saturday night.

Scene of the crash is 11 miles west of Circleville on the Williamsport-Chillicothe Pike, 48 feet north of the Pennsylvania railroad crossing.

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff quoted eyewitnesses as saying that Dorrill was driving at high speed and blowing the car's horn just prior to the crash.

ACCORDING to the sheriff's department, the driver applied his brakes and the car skidded 213 feet before it hit the tracks of the railroad crossing. Then it skidded for an additional 48 feet and crashed into the southeast corner of the Heffner Grain Company building.

A section of the building's brick foundation was damaged and the car was demolished.

Dorrill suffered a fractured skull, deep cuts of the head and one arm, and brain concussion.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said questioning of Dorrill had been delayed because of his serious condition. The driver was knocked unconscious in the crash.

When officers arrived they found Mrs. Toe sitting calmly in a room adjoining the bedroom. She was being held in city prison for investigation of homicide.

After Brooding, Woman Kills Mate

COLUMBUS — A 63-year-old Columbus woman told police she lay all night beside her husband in bed brooding about an argument, then got up early today and shot him to death.

Police said Mrs. Mary Heen Toe admitted shooting her husband, William, 69, a boiler room attendant, in the back. She said her husband had struck her in the face last night after an argument.

When officers arrived they found Mrs. Toe sitting calmly in a room adjoining the bedroom. She was being held in city prison for investigation of homicide.

CINCINNATI — Dr. Phillip Zenner, the city's oldest citizen and one of the founders of charter government in Cincinnati, died yesterday at his home. He was 104.

He retired in 1947 after 60 years of practice and teaching neurology and psychiatry at the University of Cincinnati. He never boasted about his age and had no recipe for a long life.

U.S. Northwest Keeps Eye On Its Big Future

Atomic Power Studied As Area Watches Its Industrial Troubles

By SAM DAWSON

SEATTLE (AP) — The Pacific Northwest—long known for abundance of water power—now is eyeing the atom even as it calls for more "bathtubs."

The region expects to grow industrially so much and so steadily that the time will come when nuclear energy will help meet the demand for electric power.

That time won't be tomorrow or probably for many years. But the power companies are studying nuclear plants today—and also keeping an eye on the steady approach of the natural gas pipeline from New Mexico.

They struggle meantime with their perennial problems: Public vs. private utilities; disputes with the fishing industry and sports fishermen who contend that power dams imperil the salmon runs, criticism from nature lovers who fear loss of scenic and recreational attractions at dam sites; and the need for more giant "bathtubs" in which to store the spring run-offs.

The immediate worry of the power companies now: Will the water supply this fall be enough to meet the expected peak power load in December, or must they turn to more expensive steam plants? If the water supply falls too low, aluminum and chemical plants will lose some of their cheap electrical energy for a time this fall.

Part of the trouble will be from the delay, due to the Westinghouse Electric strike, in the scheduled installation of five generators at the new Chief Joseph dam on the Columbia River. Miller Evans, deputy director of operations and maintenance of the Bonneville Power Administration, hopes that "generation at Chief Joseph will be back on schedule by next year."

But L. E. Karrer, vice president of Puget Sound Power & Light, says the fall problem is always with the utilities — it depends in last analysis on the weather. Right now the Columbia River is dropping from flood stage in spots. By late fall it will be low. After that, how much water they dare use depends on how much rain may fall.

Byron L. Price, assistant administrator of Bonneville Power Administration, says future power demands in the Northwest call for 45 new projects in addition to those already licensed or under construction. This would mean spending "at the rate of one million dollars a day—indeinitely."

Jack D. Stevens, engineer for the Puget Sound Utilities Council, says that the industrially growing area within a 100-mile radius of Seattle alone should add about $34 million kilowatts of new generating capacity in the next seven years on the basis of foreseeable demand.

Karrer and Stevens stress that there are still untapped water sources in the basin sufficient to provide the needs of the next decade or so. And they expect to do the job, despite some tough obstacles.

Besides those already named, these include: The rising cost of building dams and generating plants—about double what it was when many of the present plants were built—and often times the difficulty with farmers, railroads, lumber interests and others in obtaining sites for dams and reservoirs.

Men's Attire Of The Future Said To Be One-Piece Suit

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hey, gents, want a peek at your attire of the future?

All you have to do is clamber into it, zip it up and you're ready to head for the office. It's a one-piece affair, just like Winston Churchill's blitz suit, but with a difference. It's so designed that it looks as if you have on the usual pants, belt, shirt and tie.

All of these elements are simulated in the design, yet it fits loosely and zips up the front in a jiffy. For more formal wear, there's a matching coat, itself simplified. No superfluous lapels, no pockets to bulge, no cuff buttons.

The one-piece suit for males has been proposed before, but it is getting a big push by Sy Devore, Hollywood's hotshot haberdasher who has a wealth of film names in his clientele.

"It's the ideal suit of the future," Devore expounded in his Vine Street salon. "With life moving so fast, men need clothes they can put on in a hurry and wear comfortably.

"And it's great for traveling. It's made out of a new material created from wood chips by the Swiss. You just put it in the washing machine, hang it up and it's ready to wear the next morning. It needs no pressing and it wears almost indefinitely.

"I made a couple up for Vic Damone, and he was crazy about them. Bill Holden saw them and wanted one for his trip to Russia, though I couldn't get it done in time. Jerry Lewis is all for them; I made a pair for his trip to New York."

Devore's price to the film names: $135 a copy. But he thinks the price to the public could be around $45 when they're mass-produced.

Fawcett Is First Educator To Be Ohio State President

COLUMBUS (AP) — Dr. Novice Fawcett, named Monday to succeed Dr. Howard Bevis as president of Ohio State University, is the first professional educator to head the big institution.

In the past, the ministry, and law have prominently figured in the backgrounds of the men who have headed the university since its inception in 1873.

Three of the seven were lawyers and three ministers. The seventh gave up a study of theology to become a geologist.

Six of Ohio State's chief administrators have been native sons. The only "foreigner" was first president Edward Orton, New York born geologist who later moved to Ohio. Orton had served one year as president of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, when he accepted the position of president of the newly established Ohio Agricultural and Mechanical College which opened its doors in Columbus in 1873 to 17 students.

During his eight years as head of the struggling land grant college, Orton also filled in as a professor of geology—a position he held for 10 years after resigning the presidency. Orton Hall, housing the university's department of geology, was named in his honor.

Dr. Orton's successor was the Rev. Walter Quincy Scott, a native of Dayton and a Civil War veteran. Elected in 1881, he resigned two years later as a result of public criticism of the lack of compulsory religious exercises at the school.

For the third president, the trustees chose another Ohioan, another minister and another Scott. Dr. William Henry Scott (no relation to his predecessor) was a native of Athens County and a graduate of Ohio University. An ordained Methodist minister, Dr. Scott was serving as president of his alma mater when he was chosen to head OSU.

When he began his 12-year term in 1883, the university had an enrollment of 355 students, many of whom bitterly resented the dismissal of Rev. Walter Scott.

The new president, however, rode out the storm of religious controversy and student resentment to lead the university into its first great period of material prosperity.

Dr. James Hulme Canfield was the first lawyer to serve as president. He was born in Delaware, Ohio, and reared in New York City where his father was an Episcopal rector.

He practiced law for nine years in Michigan, served 14 years on the faculty of the University of Kansas and four years as chancellor of Nebraska University before becoming Ohio State's fourth president. Before his resignation in 1899, his aggressive techniques for promoting OSU's growth pushed its enrollment to over 1,000.

Ohio State's fifth president was another minister, Dr. William Oxley Thompson. His 26-year term from 1899 to 1925 is the longest in the university's history.

Dr. Thompson was born in Cambridge. He worked his way through Muskingum College by tutoring and working as a janitor and farm hand.

Dr. Thompson's successor was an Ohio State alumnus, President George Washington Rightmire was the son of a Lawrence County charcoal foundryman. He taught country schools in the Portsmouth area for four years after graduating from high school to get enough money to go to Ohio State.

Dr. Rightmire was a Phi Beta Kappa and had been a member of the OSU football team. He was on the faculty of the university's college of law when he was named to succeed Dr. Thompson. He served as president for 13 years.

Ohio State's retiring president, Dr. Howard L. Bevis, was born and raised in Hamilton County. He is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati, class of 1908.

He was a professor of government and law in the graduate school of business administration at Harvard University when he was asked to return to his native state as Ohio State's seventh president.

Prior to his job at Harvard, Bevis was a professor of law at the University of Cincinnati and in 1933 was appointed an associate justice of the Ohio Supreme Court to fill an unexpired term.

Under Bevis the university had its greatest expansion, reaching a peak enrollment of 25,400 in 1947.

U.S. Scientist Confirms Discovery Of Ancient Bones

ROME (AP) — An American scientist has confirmed here that bones found in the soft coal of a long-abandoned central Italian mine have been identified definitely as a 10-million-year-old pre-man. He's called oreopithecus.

The find may help paleontologists chart more accurately the evolution of man.

By contrast with the 10-million-year-old oreopithecus, the earliest known ancient man are mere newcomers. The Java and Peking men go back no more than 300,000 years. Australopithecus, the so-called "southern ape" found in South Africa, dates back half a million to a million years.

"We struck pay dirt a week and a half ago in the recently reopened lignite mine at Bacinello," said Dr. Helmut de Terra of Columbia University, New York, who is heading the search for fossils of the pre-man.

He said finds, almost daily since then, had provided 30 to 40 pieces of coal filled with the yellow bone fossils.

The bones already identified include ribs, fragments of vertebra and either a part of a jawbone or the entire jawbone.

Dr. De Terra said the part jutting out of the coal chunk was a chin with broken teeth showing.

"It is definitely oreopithecus," he said. He described the creature of a chimpanzee and a gorilla and said it was "the most human-like fossil of that antiquity."

Fossils found in the first 10 days have been taken to Switzerland by Dr. Johannes Hertzler, of the Basel Museum of Natural History.

At Basel, experts will remove the bones from the lignite in which they are embedded.

Dr. De Terra said the scientists have every reason to hope that many more bones will be found, perhaps enough to assemble a complete skeleton.

A complete skeleton of oreopithecus was found at the old Bacinello mine in 1869, almost a century ago. That was the first and only such skeleton ever found. Miners did not know what it was. Only the skull was sent to Florence. The rest was lost. In a Florence museum, the skull disintegrated to dust. Science was left with only a description of it.

"Now, for the first time," Dr. De Terra said, "geologists and paleontologists have seen the fossils taken from the actual site, and know exactly the strata they come from."

Drunk Driver's Check Also Shaky

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — James T. Jones pleaded guilty to drunk driving June 7. Municipal Judge Joseph A. Sprinkle Jr. suspended a 180-day sentence but fined him $210.

Jones gave the court a check for $110 and got an okay to pay the balance over a period of time.

Monday Jones was back in court. Judge Sprinkle not only reinstated the original 180 days but added 180 more because Jones' check bounced.

Husband-Slayer Is Freed On Bond

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mrs. Kathryn Trooper, charged with manslaughter in the shooting of her husband, Police Chief Ray Trooper of suburban Lyndhurst, was free today after friends put up $1,000 bond.

Mrs. Trooper, 25, mother of a 4-year-old boy and expecting another child in three months, admitted she shot her husband last June 16 during an argument.

Lausche Hopes Ohio Surplus To Be Retained In Treasury

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Frank J. Lausche says he hopes none of the state treasury surplus will go toward repaying local governments for a revenue loss.

That loss came recently when court decisions knocked out a state tax on federal securities held by financial institutions.

Lausche Monday took an indirect approach to notify the Legislature of his hope in a letter opposing a proposed two million dollar state appropriation to help finance the 1939 Pan-American Games in Cleveland.

In the letter to Cleveland Councilman Joseph E. Flannery, Lausche said no one can legally make such a commitment except the Legislature.

"There is presently talk, which I hope is not translated into a reality, that a part of the surplus will be used instead of compelling the financial institutions to replace the tax to restore the losses of $12,300,000 suffered by local governments through the adverse court decisions," Lausche said.

Bills which will be presented to a special session of the Legislature Thursday noon will propose that the state appropriate enough money to meet local governments' tax losses, then recoup about half that amount through a special tax for two years.

The letter was released by the governor's office during his absence in attending the governors' conference at Atlantic City.

Lausche wrote: "While it is true that if the revenues in the next year continue as they have in the past, Ohio will have 80 million dollars in the treasury in excess of the anticipated taxes, there is no question in my mind that while the sum seems liberal, the fixed financial obligations established by the last General Assembly, but delayed in their operative date, will require for fulfillment more than the 80 million dollars."

3 Men Indicted For FHA Frauds

CLEVELAND (AP) — Three men from Canton were named in indictments returned Monday by a federal grand jury after an investigation of frauds in obtaining FHA loans.

The company involved was the Harshone Co., Inc. Its president, Harry Schoenberg, 50, and two salesmen, George F. Yeager, 49, and Thomas Smith, 59, were indicted.

James J. Carroll, assistant district attorney, said about $150,000 worth of loans guaranteed by the FHA were involved. An FBI investigation showed, he said, that the company built small cottages financed by loans which were approved only for construction of utility garages.

"Mary Hawthorth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Six years ago, when I was aged 10 and my sister 8, we were taken from my mother, due to her neglect of us, and given to the custody of my aunt and uncle. Aunt Nan taught us to cook, clean, garden, etc., and we gradually assumed more tasks until finally we were doing most of the housework.

Later my aunt had an operation to remove a tumor; and, after her return from the hospital, she never resumed any domestic responsibilities, except going after supplies that my uncle needs in his shop work. And she became bossy and dictatorial, even telling us how to spend an allowance that was given to us to teach us how to manage money.

While learning how to run a house, I was also progressing in school—which I entered at the age of 10, without previous education except knowing how to read. I started as a third grader; worked up to the fifth by the end of that year; took three grades in stride the next year, and was ready for high school. In my freshman year I made all A's, and as a sophomore my marks were A and B-plus.

Now, at 16, I've never had a date, nor been anywhere except with my parents or uncle and aunt. The doctor says I should get out more, and Aunt Nan said I could, but she makes such a fuss I don't try any more.

A few years ago she wasn't that way, but now she won't let me bake, sew, wash my hair or do anything (except clean house) without asking her first. Nor can I sew until my housework, gardening, summer study and any task she wants done are finished. When finally I am ready to sew, she has to supervise every detail of handling the material I paid for.

I don't know what to do, or how to act around my aunt any more; for no matter what I say, she claims I am "talking back" to her. And she has so many rules that one can't remember them all, to carry them out; nor make a move, without seeming to disobey.

Maybe I am doing something wrong, or maybe I am too immature to understand her motives; but I do know that she wasn't like this at first. Please tell me what to do.

B.L.

DEAR B.L.: Any fair-minded adult, reading this story, will recognize you as a humble, conscientious victim of circumstances—and your aunt as a bully and a slacker, with a bad conscience nowadays. She is taking mean advantage of your dependent situation and minor-age status, as she well knows.

It is quite significant that she has become increasingly hard on you since her return from the hospital, and subsequent failure to resume her proper share of household responsibilities. What ails her is this: (1) The more she indulges her laziness, the less she has to do—except pick on you, (2) The more she mistreats you (in her words and actions), the guiltier she feels, in the depths of her soul—which makes her angrily offensive, and defensive, in dealing with you. Ripe for trouble, in short.

As for what to do, to help and protect yourself—I feel that you need a friend in authority, to whom you might turn for understanding, and who would help you keep your thinking straight; and who might even become your champion in arguing the case with your aunt, to ask a decent break for you.

There aren't any special advisory resources in your town; but it occurs to me that the probate judge (who presumably handled your custodial arrangement) would be a logical person to explore your teen-age rights for you. County Follows State Pattern In Salary Rise

Salaries and wages paid to all county officials and county employees in Ohio in 1955 amounted to $80,056,793, State Auditor James A. Rhodes announced, following an analysis of annual financial reports submitted to him by 88 county auditors.

This was an increase of $6 million over the 1954 payroll; more than double the $36,873,110 paid 10 years ago.

Pickaway County followed the 100 percent increase pattern over the 10-year period. In 1946, Pickaway County paid out $162,228 in salaries and wages—amounting to $6 per capita (for each person in the county) on the basis of the preceding census.

Last year, this county paid $407,267 in salaries and wages, amounting to $13.87 per capita for 1955.

ASHLAND County shows the lowest 1955 per capita cost of county payrolls, $6.92, with Lorain County just one cent higher. In 1954 Lorain County reported the lowest per capita cost in the state. This is arrived at by dividing the 1950 census figures into the total amount spent in a county for salaries and wages.

Pike County showed the highest per capita cost of county payrolls in 1955 with $19.03. Campaign was next with $16.39.

Among the biggest 10 counties in population, Lorain was lowest with $6.93, followed by Stark, $8.30; Cuyahoga, $8.81, and Montgomery, $8.91.

Reversing the general trend toward bigger payrolls were 20 counties which reported less spending for salaries and wages in 1955 than in 1954.

GOP Is Aroused As Lausche Pricks Top Bender Argument

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Frank J. Lausche's hint that he might help Republicans organize the U.S. Senate if he were elected to that body has set off a barrage of criticism from Ohio GOP leaders.

Ray Bliss, chairman of the Republican State Committee, said Monday Lausche is "frantically attempting to grab on to President Eisenhower's coattails."

He referred to Lausche's statement at the governors conference in Atlantic City that he does not know whether he would vote with the Democrats to organize the U.S. Senate if he is elected to that body next November.

The statement raised the possibility that Lausche might help the Republicans organize the Senate and tended to undermine one of the chief campaign arguments of Lausche's Republican opponent, Sen. George H. Bender.

"His statement was a typical, double-meaning Lausche statement," said Bliss. "He doesn't say he will and he doesn't say he won't. He has used the same technique before."

Bliss continued: "When Sen. Burton resigned from the U.S. Senate to accept a position on the Supreme Court bench, and again, when Sen. Robert Taft died, both Republicans, Gov. Lausche in each instance appointed a Democrat to succeed them after leading the public to believe he might appoint Republicans."

"In 1948, he urged the election of President Truman. In 1951, he urged President Truman to be a candidate for re-election in 1952. In 1952 he supported the Democratic nominee, Stevenson, for president."

"Now by a statement full of innuendo, Lausche is frantically attempting to grab on to President Eisenhower's coattails. He appar-

Lengthy Writing Job Ahead Of Boy

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Franklin W. West, 17, has to write "I will never use a Hollywood muffer again" 3,000 times.

The youth, accused of using an illegal muffer on his car, was first sentenced by Magistrate Raymond I. Harris to write the sentence 1,000 times.

West came back with 20 sheets of notepaper but the magistrate discovered it was not all filled in the same handwriting. He tripled the sentence and told West to do the writing in the courtroom.

West admitted two girls helped him the first time because they "felt sorry for me."

Capital Tourists To Get Assistance

WASHINGTON (AP) — General Services Administration has come up with an answer to end what it described as the tourists' "bewildering search for a building's name or the identity of its occupants."

It announced approval of a uniform system under which federal buildings will be identified with metal plaques or lettering placed just above eye level near the main entrance.

F. Moran McConihe, commissioner of public buildings, said the system results from a suggestion by Rep. Oliver P. Bolton (R-Ohio).

Bolton protested last April that many persons not familiar with Washington are often lost or puzzled by the lack of identification on federal office buildings.

TRAINING "GIFTED" PUPILS

SPECIAL CLASSES FOR "highly gifted" or "exceptional" children have proved very successful in St. Louis. Other cities also have done considerable work in providing special instruction for youngsters who have high I.Q. ratings. Portland, Ore., schools are conducting an extensive experiment along this line with Ford Foundation money. A report on the latter is expected some time next year.

The trend to providing "enrichment" of education for bright children developed as it was found that "progressive" education methods tended to pitch normal classroom instruction at the learning level of the slowest pupil, at worst, or the "median" pupil, at best.

As a result, the 10 to 20 per cent of each class which can absorb teaching rapidly, find themselves with nothing to do while "slow" children catch up. It means time wasted for these children in which they could be developing special skills; it also means bad study for them because they are not being pushed to develop fully.

Two answers to this are being tried: ONE—Use of special "segregated" classes or "brain rooms" as they are called in St. Louis, which offer instruction at the speed of the individual child and offer special classes in language, math, art, etc.

TWO—The "enrichment" of curriculum without segregating the bright youngsters from the slower pupils. This takes the form of special reading, science projects, research projects and development of fields in which the interests of the individual pupil lie.

Advocates of the latter plan contend that if leaders of a class are segregated then they don't have the chance to develop leadership of the average group.

MALE VANITY

SURPRISING statistics continue to be dished out by the government at Washington, and among the most flabbergasting are those contained in a Census Bureau survey which reveals that, for the first time since beauty parlors began to flourish, men are paying out more money for beauty from the neck up than women.

Barbers took in $500,000,000 — take or give a few dollars—in 1953, while beauty shops grossed $487,000,000—ditto—during the 12 months. These figures represent a 24 per cent and 19 per cent increase, respectively, over 1948 totals. The government does not interpret its surveys, but one theory is that home permanents are responsible for male beauty expenditures passing those of the ladies.

What makes these figures surprising is the decline of an old American institution, the barber shop shave. Men who have their shaving needs attended to by a barber, once numerous, are relatively rare today.

Apparently this is additional proof that statistics are more reliable than popular impressions. Most men certainly would have expressed the opinion that women spend larger sums in beauty parlors than men do in barber shops.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

One of the most serious problems facing the united AFL-CIO is whether it is to go the American Federation of Labor road or the C.I.O. road. In any merger of two organizations as different in philosophy and history, one is likely to predominate, although it is usually hoped that a compromise, a middle-of-the road way will be found.

The election of George Meany to the Presidency of the AFL-CIO gave the impression that the American Federation of Labor concept would prevail, which would mean that American organized labor would be anti-Communist not only in the United States but throughout the world and particularly in international labor organizations. The 20th Congress of the Communist Party of Soviet Russia has made a considerable difference in attitude among labor leaders, even anti-Communist labor leaders. This Congress was a major propaganda effort designed to weaken resistance to Russia on the part of socialists, liberals and labor leaders throughout the world.

Too many of such persons are weary of the constant quarrels inside the labor movement between those who are pro-Communist and those who are anti-Communist and those who stand in between and do not know where to go. Therefore, they have been willing to accept Khrushchev's anti-Stalinism, if not as a sincere statement, at any rate as one that serves their purpose.

Some may wonder why it took Khrushchev so long to discover the evils of Stalin, but the general attitude is that it is better to let the record stand that Stalin was no good and Khrushchev said it.

The result in the AFL-CIO is that there is some criticism of George Meany's intense and forthright pro-Americanism and anti-Communism and there is some leaning toward Walter Reuther's socialistic attitude which is more conciliatory.

For instance, a letter from George Meany to K. Prasas Tripathi, General Secretary of the Indian National Trade Union Congress, has been widely distributed in American labor circles. This letter contains the following paragraph:

"Brother Tripathi, I hope that you now realize how illadvised you were to condemn my appeal to liberals, like Prime Minister Nehru, to take the lead in the struggle against Communism.

You know better than I do that the Soviet despots Khrushchev and Bulganin flagrantly violated elementary international ethics and abused the hospitality of your country when they exploited its Parliament as a platform from which to vilify the very democratic forces which have been and continue to be most helpful to the people of India in their splendid efforts to build a strong and prosperous democracy—a democracy which will be a great source of hope and freedom throughout Asia."

Whereas this was written before Khrushchev's attack on Stalin, it is a correct position and nothing has happened to require changing a word it. Nevertheless, Reuther went to India, praised everything he saw and heard and came away with flowers in his hair. Reuther is regarded in the labor world as planning to be George Meany's successor and not in the too distant future. Meany also said in this letter:

CHAPTER 15

IT WAS strange to wake to the song of birds, early-morning sunlight and the fragrance of flowers blooming just outside the windows.

Rita had an impulse to get up and get outside. Could she get out without disturbing Priscilla? Should she advise Priscilla about disposing of the property, or let the decision be entirely her own? It seemed the logical thing to go ahead and accept the offer. Alvarez had made. Yet it seemed strange that the man was so anxious to get the property now, when it had been standing vacant so long. Mr. Todd had explained that by selling the property could not be put on the market until the heir was found. It was after their visit to Lookout House that Alvarez had come to Mr. Todd with his offer. How had he known Mr. Todd was handling it? Had he seen them at the property? And what about the money she had found? No one had answered the advertisement.

The slight bite in the air made her think of coffee. She got out of bed quietly and went to the kitchen to put on the coffee pot. By the time she had slipped into black woolen slacks and a white sweater, rebraced her hair and wrapped it around her head, the coffee was ready. She poured herself a cup and carried it outside, being careful to stay on the narrow walk to avoid the heavy dew. She broke off in her thoughts on seeing a car stop.

"Hi," Bill called. "I didn't know vacationists got up so early. Come over and say good morning."

Rita walked over to the car. "It isn't early. Must be all of seven. I might ask the same of you. Aren't you early—for a writer?"

"It's late for me. I've already been out fishing. I like the early mornings. That coffee smells good. . . . Would you have another cup of it handy?" His smile was whimsical.

Rita thought, I could like him if he didn't antagonize me. She said pleasantly, "There's a potful—but I can't ask you to. It's really a dollhouse. And Priscilla is still sleeping. But I'll get you a cup."

"Tell you what. Leave the coffee for Priscilla and come with me. We'll ride over to Maud's and get breakfast. I take it you haven't had yours?" Reading refusal in her eyes, he added coaxingly, "It's a nice ride over the bridge in the early morning." Rita shook her head. "Priscilla will awaken and wonder where I am. But I'll be glad to get you a cup of coffee."

"Leave her a note," Bill urged. "It isn't often that I ask a lady to breakfast."

"You tempt me. Give me two minutes to write the note."

Bill would have laughed had he seen the note Rita left. "Wonder of wonders! I've gone to breakfast with the red Buick. Coffee's made. Back soon."

She threw a soft white coat around her shoulders, tucked a red hibiscus in her hair.

"You're quite fetching in that outfit," Bill said, his eyes moving over her approvingly. "With that red flower in your black hair, your eyes like velvet pansies, you look like a sorority."

Rita thought, There he goes again, trying to link me with that Spaniard Alvarez. She said cheerfully, "Thanks for the compliment."

Bill was right. The ride across the causeway was exhilarating in the fresh morning air. Sunlight sparkled on the water. Gulls flew intricate patterns above the boats.

"There's that beautiful yacht!" said Rita. "Doesn't it gleam in the sun? Like silver and gold."

"I think I asked you last night if you had met Alvarez."

"You did," Rita said smoothly. "Do you know him?"

"I haven't met him yet. Dick Devereaux says he thinks he can get an invite for me to a party Alvarez is planning soon."

"You're really interested in that boat," she said.

"Could be," Bill said, and added, "Let's say curious, instead."

He probably expected her to ask why he was curious, but she didn't. "I think Doc was quite smitten by your little friend," he said.

"I was afraid of that."

"Why afraid?"

"Not really, of course. And then he's not really smitten, as you call it. He's in love with the little girl we met at Maud's last night, isn't he?"

"Peggy Pomeroy? I think he is. Although having been in Apalachicola such a short time, I can't say how serious it is. It seems to be an accepted fact here that Peggy can have either one of them, Dick or Pete Craig."

They had stopped on the bridge to enjoy the bright landscape. The fog had lifted and the sun was like molten gold. "Guess we'd better move on. I'm needing that coffee. By the way, Doc said he was going to ask Priscilla to ride with him on a call down near Carrabelle this morning, if you didn't mind. Do you?"

"Mind? Why should I? After all, Priscilla is twenty-two and I'm not her chaperone."

"I wondered about that. You and Priscilla."

"You mean you wonder why we are congenial, me being thirty-six and Priscilla twenty-two? Priscilla was a small-town girl when she came to New York three years ago. She got a job with the firm I've been with for a long time, and I sort of took her under my wing."

"If I said you didn't look anywhere near thirty-six, you would think I'm trying to flatter you."

"No," she said candidly. "I wouldn't think that. Because, you see, I quite agree with you. Perhaps because I've been told that so often. And I don't really mind being thirty-six—in fact, I believe I would rather be my age than twenty-two."

She laughed cheerfully. "I've been both ages, you see, and I can speak from experience. I'm glad I'm past that age where you go all tingly if a man who appeals to you looks at you as if you appeal to him, too."

"It's not a bad feeling," Bill said, smiling. "And it can happen to one at thirty-six as well as at twenty-two. A woman of thirty-six can be just as appealing."

"Now that remark really has all the earmarks of flattery," Rita said good-naturedly, "but it leaves me unimpressed."

"You really are a cool one, aren't you?"

"I don't know, but flattery always seems a little obvious to me."

She smiled to take away the slightly caustic sound of the remark, and added lightly, "Here we are! And I seem to have worked up an appetite. I have an empty spot not only for coffee but for bacon and eggs. Breakfast appeals to me more just now than romance."

"You win," said Bill, more interested in this woman than he wanted to be. He jerked himself up mentally. None of that. He had a job to do. Until he knew more about her, he'd better keep his feelings strictly impersonal.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The leaders of the American Communist party, who have acted like arrogant shepherds toward their own members, are still sheep in the Russian pasture. Some of them may be shorn.

There is rising discontent in the party with this leadership which recently confessed to a whole series of disastrous mistakes over the past 10 years and now pretends to be surprised to hear Stalin was a dictator and murderer.

Party members, writing to their newspaper, the Daily Worker, charge dictatorship against the American leaders: directly against the old and ill chairman, William Z. Foster, indirectly against Secretary Eugene Dennis, the real boss, and others.

The leadership itself has conceded the rank-and-file should have more say in the decisions which have been handed down from the top.

The top American Reds had approved every action of Stalin. Dennis recently acknowledged they looked upon Stalin as "infallible." Then Nikita Khrushchev, the Russian Communist boss, put them on the spot.

By revealing Stalin's one-man rule in all its horror, Khrushchev to be self-critical and critical of one another. He left it up to them to figure out how critical.

As if helpless to know what to do or say until they got the clue from Moscow, the American Communist leaders kept silent for months after Khrushchev's revelations. This week the Central Committee finally spoke up.

It raised critical questions about the part played by Russia's new leaders in Stalin's usurpation of power and his crimes. But it did this only after the Italian, French and British Communists had asked the same questions.

"We... are shocked," the committee members said of the revelations. The delay in speaking up made them look afraid to take the lead in criticizing Russia or even knowing what to say or how far to go until others showed the way.

Since it was common knowledge for 20 years that Stalin had one-man rule and slaughtered people, the Central Committee, in saying it was shocked to hear all this, put itself in the position of being considered dumb or hypocritical. No one has accused the Reds of being dumb.

But Dennis himself provided another example of continued subservience to Russia. Almost as if saying, "Oh, thank you, sir," he expressed gratitude to Khrushchev for saying war is not inevitable.

The rank-and-file may be able to swallow the present leaders' history of disasters — the blind obedience to Stalin was not news

Coffee Regains Its Former Rating In Luxury Bracket

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Coffee is in the luxury brackets again.

The reason, say spokesmen for the coffee industry, is a "limited supply" of "mild" coffee, which isn't necessarily mild at all, but is a trade term for any coffee grown elsewhere than Brazil.

"Don't say there's a shortage," cautions the coffee man. "That only makes people start hoarding."

The reason for the limited supply, it seems, is the season of heavy rains that occurred about six months ago in Mexico, Colombia and Central America, where most of the world's "mild" coffee supply is grown.

Contributing reasons are increased coffee consumption in the United States and Europe in the last five years.

The coffee people feel that such stringent measures will not be necessary this time. They say if coffee drinkers will just be careful not to waste coffee, the situation will remain well in hand.

The coffee people offer these tips on how to make the most of the coffee you have, and produce a perfect brew:

1. Always have your coffee maker scrupulously clean. Wash it as you would any other pot or pan.
2. If you use only a small amount of coffee at a time, brew only as much as you can use, and use a small coffee maker.
3. Start with fresh, cold water, and observe consistent timing for uniform results.

Serve the coffee as soon as it is made, and don't reheat it.

HERE'S HOW...

MAKE A FLOAT FOR SWIMMING

A sturdy float is made of lumber 2 inches thick.

First make a frame, as shown, fastening it securely with 8-inch galvanized spikes. Space the floor boards 1/4 inch apart and fasten with 60-penny galvanized nails.

Two inside stringers are placed to fit against the drums and are spiked in place. Fasten the ladder to the frame with four 1/4 by 6-inch leader who will stand up for the United States when it is attacked and who has the courage to show to other peoples a united front with other Americans. Too many of those who go abroad feel that the way to make friends is to praise them even when they vilify our country. Some crave popularity by over-emphasizing American short-comings among other peoples who already have doubts about us.

George Meany, President of AFL-CIO, has not taken that position. In his letter to the Indian labor leader, he painted Khrushchev and Bulganin as the hooligans they are and he spoke of his own country as a patriotic American should. The essence of this situation is the existence of the World Federation of Trade Unions which is Communist-dominated. The pull now is in the direction of the American unions joining this body.

High Producing Dairy Cows Prefer Corn And Alfalfa Silage

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Research completed at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture indicates that corn silage and alfalfa silage preserved with corn and cob meal are superior to oat silage for high-producing dairy cows.

In an experiment at the university dairy farm, high-producing cows didn't eat as much oat silage as other silages because the oat silage was not so palatable. The result was a loss in weight and a drop in milk flow when cows were switched from either alfalfa or corn silage to oat silage.

The opposite effect was seen when cows went from oat silage to either of the other two silages.

The oat silage was considered to be excellent quality. The oats were cut in the early-dough stage. Had they been harvested for grain, they would have yielded about 85 bushels an acre.

The cows used in the experiment were 12 high-producing Holsteins. They were fed 14 pounds of good quality hay daily throughout the test. All cows got a 15 percent grain mix feed according to their individual production.

Final figures showed that, on the average, cows ate 53 pounds of corn silage, 45 pounds of alfalfa silage and 28 pounds of oat silage daily. In all possible sequences, the silages were fed free choice for five-week periods.

Removing all axillary shoots (suckers) from staked tomato plants can cause excessive fruit cracking.

Research by E. K. Alban at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station during the past seven years reveals that if these axillary shoots are allowed to develop, fruit cracking can be reduced by as much as 50 to 60 percent.

Alban's suggested pruning procedure for Ohio growers is to remove only the first and second suckers below the first fruit cluster. Then allow all other axillary shoots to develop. The sucker just below the first flower cluster or the one just above will ordinarily develop fairly rapidly and provide a 2 or 3-stem plant.

Carefully tying these stems to the stake will help develop a compact plant with most fruits protected from direct sunlight. Reduced fruit cracking, less sunscald and better fruit color will result from this modified pruning system.

Stories about farm animals infected with tetanus (lockjaw) usually have unhappy endings, says Dr. D. R. Lingard of the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine.

When tetanus germs get into a wound in either man or beast, they produce a deadly poison that causes muscular spasms. These spasms spread through the body and frequently result in death.

You'll be able to notice a stiffness in the leg muscles of the infected animals before the characteristic symptom of tightly closed jaws strikes. Small farm animals that have tetanus are usually found lying on their side, legs outstretched, with ears erect and jaws locked shut.

Horses are the most susceptible to tetanus of all farm animals. Cattle are second in susceptibility, but most cases occur in swine and sheep because routine castrating and tail docking of the young animals give the germs a chance to get into the blood stream.

Umbilical abscesses in newly born animals also present an opportunity for tetanus infection. Cleanliness and good management are the best ways of preventing tetanus.

You can protect valuable animals by having a veterinarian vaccinate them against tetanus. A veterinarian should also be called to treat injuries and to administer tetanus antitoxin to animals suffering from deep or dirty wounds.

Lausche Opposes Federal Controls

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Ohio Gov. Frank J. Lausche has gone on record as being opposed to federal aid to education.

Lausche said Monday during a round-table discussion on higher education at the 48th annual governor's conference here that once the federal government obtained "control of the purse strings" it would "have control of the curricula eventually."

Passerby Points To Fire In Home

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Mrs. Martha Welch was sitting on the front porch of an apartment building when a truck driver stopped and asked her:

"Do you know that the third floor is on fire?"

Mrs. Welch looked up and saw flames coming from her apartment. The fire, confined to her quarters, did an estimated $1,250 damage.

Congregation Church, E&R Seen Merging

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—A new vista was open today before Congregational Christians as they surveyed their home-missions landscape, its borders to be widened in a new "United Church of Christ."

As delegates heard reports on the church's schools, colleges, hospitals, race-relations projects and other affairs, attention centered on possibilities ahead in the bigger, combined church.

By an overwhelming vote of 1,310 to 179, the council Saturday gave final approval to plans for the merger with the Evangelical and Reformed Church, the first union of its kind in this country.

"It is a demonstration of a new dimension of church unity," said Dr. Fred Hoskins of Oak Park, Ill., newly-elected "minister" of Congregational Christians, their chief administrative officer.

Dr. James E. Wagner of Philadelphia, president of the E. and R.

strengthening" of both churches. Final approval of the union came in an emotion-packed swirl of both enthusiasm and apprehension. Opponents fought the plan down to the last, voicing fears that traditional church freedoms would be lost.

The Rev. Malcolm Burton, of Pontiac, Mich., leader of an anti-merger faction, said of the result: "The palace guard and the denominational camp followers may hold their part together, but out in the grass roots, it's different."

Guatemala Cops Kill 3 Students In Crackdown

Red Agitators Blamed As University Youths Protest New Edicts

GUATEMALA (AP)—Police firing submachineguns and pistols to break up a demonstration against the government's crackdown on Red agitation, killed three university students and wounded 19 last night on Guatemala City's main street.

The victims were in a parade of several hundred students marching toward the government palace to protest curtailment of civil liberties under the "state of alarm" imposed Sunday by President Castillo Armas' regime.

About half the marchers were girls. One girl was wounded. So was a policeman.

The state of alarm put Guatemala under a form of martial law. The government said it was necessary to prevent "sedition disorders" plotted by Communists.

Soon after the shooting, the government ordered censorship of news dispatches sent abroad.

The students marched defiantly from a meeting at the university. Officials had sent them a warning message that they would be "swept from the streets" if they attempted to stage a protest.

A WITNESS said a detachment of about 20 policemen, drawn up across the avenue outside a movie theater, ordered the marchers to halt.

"The police fired into the air," the witness reported. "The students kept coming, singing the national anthem."

"Police then started firing into the marchers, while police reinforcements rushed up."

"As soon as the firing started," (Continued on Page Two)

Latin Tutor Says Language Not 'Dead'

OXFORD (AP)—Latin is far from a dead language, and it is getting livelier every year, says Miss Belle Gould of Texas.

Miss Gould, who teaches the subject in high school at Henderson, Tex., says there is a wave of enthusiasm for the language of old Rome which shows up in the fast growth of the Junior Classical League, now holding its third annual convention at Miami University here.

"You just can't separate the growth of this organization from the new interest in Latin in a lot of our high schools," she said.

She said there were 478 at the first convention in Dallas, 547 last year in Des Moines, "and now we're over 900 here and everybody's too busy to stop and count up to find out exactly how many."

Miss Gould has shared in stirring up the Latin boom that has brought 41,000 league members. It started, she said, when "our own little group was printing up a little paper of its own. One time a few years ago, we just printed up a whole mess of extra copies and sent them all over the country."

"In that issue we had a saying: We thought these classic clubs in high schools ought to keep in touch."

Now that magazine, called Torch, is the league's official publication.

Year Steel Contract Hinted

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel industry and union negotiating teams met again today amid increasing speculation concerning a compromise three-year contract.

That would be two years less than the term that management has proposed and that the United Steelworkers have rejected. It would be one year longer than the Steelworkers have settled for in the past.

Management officials recently have refrained from using the word "final" in reference to their five-year proposal. And some union circles in Pittsburgh have asked the union negotiators to accept a three-year settlement.

Safecrackers Hit Southend Metal Concern

Undetermined Amount Of Money Missing; Job "Professional"

Circleville city police today were trying to pick up the trail of safecrackers who broke into offices of a Southend metal firm and escaped with an undetermined amount of money.

The break-in was reported from the Circleville Iron and Metal Works on S. Clinton St. Julius Gordon, co-owner of the company, reported about 8:30 a. m. today that offices of the firm had been entered sometime during the night.

The safe had been broken open and parts of the premises ransacked.

Police Chief Elmer Merriman said: "The job looked very professional. We hope to be able to tell more about it in the near future."

THE AMOUNT of money taken was known to be considerable, but police said it had yet to be estimated.

A bar across a window in the rear of the building, as well as the window itself, were broken to gain entrance.

City Patrolmen Bob Temple and Don Adams were among those who joined the investigation.

Killer Said Seen In Area Near Columbus

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state highway patrol is conducting a manhunt in a wooded area northeast of nearby Westerville for a man described as killer Alfred Wilson.

Heavily armed patrolmen searched the area from the air and on the ground for the fugitive slayer of three Trumbull County residents.

Wilson is the 37-year-old truck driver who flew into a rage over the departure of his common law wife, Juanita, and is accused of going on a shooting rampage Thursday night.

Victims were two of his wife's sisters and a teenage girl he had never seen before.

The patrolmen, from Westerville, Delaware and the Franklin County and Delaware County sheriff's offices converged on the area shortly after a woman refused food to a man she later "positively identified" from a picture as Wilson.

The state highway patrol, however, said the identification was "vague."

Meanwhile, arsenal guards reported today they saw a man climb over the fence into the Ravens Aresenal.

Portage and Trumbull County deputies, also searching for Wilson, hurried to the scene.

Wilson has been reported several times since Thursday nights killings but previous tips uncovered no clues to the whereabouts of the hunted truck driver.

The Columbus area search was being conducted near the Kigore Manufacturing Co., northwest of Westerville.

A report by a 65-year-old woman caretaker of a home on the Three C highway just north of Westerville touched off the manhunt.

The unidentified woman said she saw a man acting strangely near her place early this morning.

Vets Pensions Bills Bringing House Debate

Legion-VFW Proposal Could Cost $148 Billion By Year 2000, Belief

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaders in the pensions-for-veterans drive brought out a new, one-half cent proposal today as the House headed into an anything-can-happen battle over a bill that could annually cost billions of dollars.

Rep. Edmondson (D-Okla.) said the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars will back a $90-a-month pension instead of the $105 version originally approved by the House Veterans Committee.

This, plus other agreed-on cuts in the committee bill, would chop first-year costs to little more than two thirds of a billion dollars. Without this the administration estimates the first year's tab at $144 billion and a total of $148 billion by the year 2000.

The last-minute switch reflected leaders' opinions that even in an election year the bigger bill hadn't a chance of becoming law.

Chairman Olin E. Teague (D-Tex.), with the support of Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.), pushed a rival plan aimed mainly at helping seriously disabled veterans. Providing less pension liberalization, it would cost about $200 million the first year.

House Republicans caucused yesterday and decided each member would be free to vote as he pleased on the political issue.

Some Democratic leaders other than Rayburn were reported favoring "laughing through" the full committee bill on the theory that the Senate or a late-session veto by President Eisenhower would kill it.

Overnight, there had been no word from the White House on the (Continued on Page Two)

Admiral King Rites Slated For Friday

PORTSMOUTH, N. H. (AP)—Funeral services for Fleet Adm. Ernest J. King, who died yesterday at the age of 77, will be held Friday at Washington National Cathedral with burial at the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The body will be taken by air to Washington today and will lie in state at the cathedral.

The World War II commander of the U.S. Navy died at Portsmouth Naval Hospital of acute heart failure induced by long blood pressure, from which he suffered for many years.

President Eisenhower noted the passing of his old friend with this statement issued at Walter Reed Army Hospital, where he is recovering from an operation that "the nation has lost a great American and an outstanding naval officer."

"As commander in chief of our naval forces and as chief of naval operations during World War II Adm. King carried his heavy responsibilities with courage, brilliance and devotion to duty."

In Lorain, Ohio, Mayor John Jaworski declared that the house at 113 Hamilton Avenue should be a memorial to Admiral King.

It is the birthplace of the admiral, and presently is occupied. The mayor proposes that the city buy the house. He said he would call a meeting within the next few days to discuss the idea.

Jaworski said he would invite some of the citizens who in their youth had been playmates of the admiral.

Poll At Governors Conference Show Harriman Gaining Backing

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson appears likely to collect more than 400 overpowering presidential nominating votes from the 27 Democratic-controlled states represented at the 48th annual Governors Conference.

On the basis of an Associated Press survey of opinion of the governors or their representatives from those states which have Democratic chief executives, Stevenson has only to break even in 21 GOP-dominated states to wrap up his party's nomination on an early ballot at the Aug. 13 Chicago convention.

The strong reservoir of Stevenson support was disclosed despite what appeared to be an upsurge in the strength of Gov. Averell Harriman of New York in the wake of the practical demise of Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee as a challenging candidate.

Harriman harvested the prospect of gaining the backing of Kentucky's 30 votes, if Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler can win control of them and make some sort of agreement with the New York governor. Harriman said today no such agreement had been reached.

IN ADDITION, if he got Kentucky, Harriman would have most of New York's 98 votes, Oklahoma's 28 and what Gov. Ray would be 85 more from Republican-controlled Western states.

All of this made Harriman a strong contender for a nomination which will go to the first Democrat who accumulates 688½ votes on any ballot at the convention.

Here is what Democratic governors had to say about the nomination:

Alabama Gov. James E. Folsom said he had been, for former President Harry S. Truman for a long time. However, Sen. Sparkman, a Stevenson supporter, had predicted Stevenson will get two thirds of the state's votes.

Truman Wants His Epitaph To Say: 'He Done Damndest'

LONDON (AP)—Harry Truman visited the tombs of Britain's great today and said he wanted a short epitaph on his own grave.

"Yes, sir," he remarked, "I want them to put on mine: 'He done his damndest.'"

Touring through St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey, the former U. S. president visited the tombs of the Duke of Wellington, Adm. Lord Nelson, Charles Dickens and Prime Minister Gladstone.

At the historic Abbey Truman stared down at the cold, stone floor and commented: "Frankly, I'd rather be under the ground than under a stone floor like this. It would be a lot easier to get out when the great horn blows."

Mexicans Say Plot By Cubans Crushed

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexican police say the arrest of 20 Cuban exiles has brought to light a well-planned plot to kill Cuba's President Fulgencio Batista.

Target date for the assassination attempt was late July, officials reported, with simultaneous uprisings planned in Havana and 10 key cities.

Informal sources said a report of the investigation alleged that exiles from Argentina, Peru, Panama, Guatemala, Costa Rica, the Dominican Republic, veterans of the Spanish Civil War and others were involved.

Twining Gets To See Newest Soviet Supersonic Bomber

MOSCOW (AP)—Gen. Nathan Twining, U.S. Air Force chief of staff, has been given a look at a new Soviet bomber the Russians say can fly faster than sound.

The U.S. Air Force does not yet have such a supersonic bomber. The speed of sound varies from 760 miles an hour at sea level to about 663 miles an hour at altitudes above 35,000 feet.

The top U.S. airman, a group of his aides and British, French and other foreign military men were shown the new plane during a conducted tour of the closely guarded Kubinka air base, about 40 miles from Moscow.

Today the American and British air force toured another secret Soviet installation in the Moscow area, the Zhukovski Air Engineering Academy.

Little was known of this academy. Some sources said it was an aeronautics laboratory. Others said they believed it was merely an engineering school for air officers. Reporters who tried to accompany the party were barred.

THE SAME thing happened Monday, when the visitors went to Kubinka Air Base.

Twining said later the new craft was a twin-engine, light attack bomber.

The foreign military men, who were invited here to see Russia's latest aviation achievements, were told the new bomber had never been shown before.

The visiting officers toured the base in jeeps, making only one stop while viewing more than 100 planes.

The stop came when Twining

'Lost' Documents May Bring Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said today the House should "determine if important statements of campaign contributions have been destroyed."

Bridges, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, made the suggestion after House Clerk Ralph R. Roberts said he assumed the documents in question had been "sold as scrap paper."

The documents are a statement the campaign contributions filed by the treasurer of the Republican National Committee for 1952 and others filed by the Democrats for the years 1949-1952.

The Justice Department said the reports are needed in connection with "investigations."

A similar bill was defeated in the last Legislature but Knight said the department is now "optimistic" it will become law.

GOP Half-Billion Bill Slated For Senate Ballot

Knowland Reports Ike Will OK Amount, But Not Full $1 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rival claims in the heated Senate battle over whether to increase Air Force funds above the amount asked by President Eisenhower agreed to a showdown today with Sen. Bridges (R-NH). They predicted it will be a close vote.

Senate Republican leader Knowland of California said the Eisenhower administration is sticking to its defense budget in the face of a Democratic move to add an extra $1 billion for the Air Force.

But Knowland also said that as against the Democratic proposal, a rival Republican plan by Bridges to increase Air Force funds by a half-billion dollars would be "more acceptable."

Knowland spoke with newsmen after Republican congressional leaders held their regular Tuesday legislative conference at the White House.

With President Eisenhower in the hospital the GOP lawmakers met with Sherman Adams, the President's top aide, and other White House staff members.

KNOWLAND SAID the administration's position is that budget recommendations of the White House and the Joint Chiefs of Staff are adequate for the country's defense needs.

Knowland would not answer directly a question whether the President would accept the larger amount and not spend it. There would be a precedent for that.

Former President Truman impounded $726,151,000 in funds Congress voted for the Air Force in the 1949-50 budget.

The money, part of the allotment for aircraft procurement, was turned over to the Air Force after the start of the Korean War.

Bridges is spearheading a Republican drive to limit to half a billion dollars the added money that would be voted the Air Force for the 12 months starting Sunday.

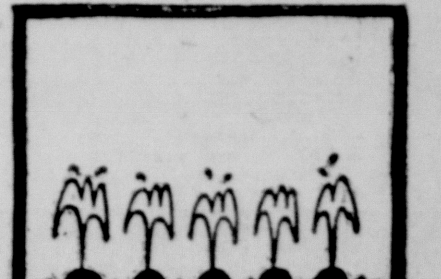

Sen. Chavez (D-NM), floor manager for the $35 billion annual defense money bill, voiced confidence the Senate would approve an extra $1.1 billion for the Air Force. The House voted a little less than $1½ billion.

"WHALES GIVING SCHOOL YELL"

In 1953 when my colleague, Dr. Schweine, was all hopped up about an idea he had for making Blubber Flavored Ice Cream, he was able to purchase a slightly used whale (deceased) for a bargain price. He got it from an Old Eskimo who only used it on week-ends for Harpoon practice. However, as the whale was in Alaska the transportation presented a problem. So Dr. Schweine arranged with a local sardine factory to pack the whale into a huge can for him. It took over 5,000 gallons of oil but it was worth it because it enabled Dr. S. to ship the whale back home. Up to now he hasn't taken it out of the can. But he plans to, just as soon as he can locate a forty-foot key to open it with.

various plans, although it previously expressed strong disapproval of the major parts of the committee bill.

That bill would provide non-service-connected pensions of $105 a month at age 65 for World War I, II, and Korean War veterans whose annual incomes are less than $1,400 if single or $2,700 if with dependents. The rate would be 20 per cent higher for those with at least 20 days overseas service.

IT WOULD ALSO raise compensation for service-connected injury generally by 10 to 15 per cent and increase payments to veterans' widows.

The new Legion - VFW plan would make a number of decreases in the committee bill, including dropping the pension to $90 a month and the overseas bonus to 10 per cent.

Teague's version would knock out the pension features except for a 5 per cent premium for overseas service and a raise from $135 to $150 in pensions to veterans seriously disabled. It would retain service-connected disability compensation increases including a rise from $181 to $250 a month in compensation to the totally disabled.

Under the present limited non-service-connected pension system a veteran can get $66.15 monthly at any age if permanently and totally disabled and if his income falls within the $1,400 and $2,700 ceilings. The rate goes up to $78.75 a month at age 65 or if he has been a pensioner continuously for 10 years.

More than 250 different kinds of birds and animals are found in the Great Smoky National park.

U.S. Ready To Use New Missile Range

Ascension lies almost midway between South America and Africa.

Sheriff Radcliff Urges Parents To Make Swimmers Take Care

Taking note of two drownings in the district within the past few days, Pickaway County Sheriff Charles Radcliff issued a word of caution today for youngsters who forget safety rules in their enthusiasm for swimming.

A 15-year old Columbus boy slipped to his death in the Scioto River near Circleville Saturday, and a 13-year old Amanda Township boy drowned in a farm pond Sunday. In his warning, Sheriff Radcliff pointed out that the hottest weeks of the Summer are still ahead, and that the swimming season is still young.

Sheriff Radcliff emphasized that youngsters should not swim alone in isolated sections. Even this precaution, however, failed to avert the district's two tragedies.

within the past few days, he pointed out.

"The two drownings we've just had are proof that tragedies can happen even when this precaution is observed," the sheriff said. "But I mention it because—as a rule—most of the drowning incidents happen away from the crowds, or beyond the reach of fast assistance."

"I REALIZE it isn't always possible to swim at locations where the fun is supervised, or better still at spots where they have regular guards, but the boys and girls should pick such places whenever possible."

Sheriff Radcliff appealed to Pickaway County parents to impress their children with the need for caution when they go swimming. He said:

"The youngsters themselves, being youngsters and so full of life, very often listen to such warnings and then let it go out the other ear. That's why I think this word of caution should be directed especially to the parents."

"Children, as a rule, listen and remember what their parents tell them."

The sheriff said he didn't want "the kids to think I'm trying to take the fun out of life". He added:

"I know very well what a big kick they get out of swimming, because I remember how we were when we were at that age. And in our day we weren't any too careful either. We swam in any spot we could find."

County Rates High On 1955 Income List

Revealing that Ohio's county governments more than doubled their income between 1947 and 1955, State Auditor James A. Rhodes noted that Pickaway County's revenue last year amounted to $1,578,238.

According to the state auditor's figures, that amount was outstanding among counties of comparable population. Other counties in Pickaway's population bracket, and their 1955 revenue, included the following: Auglaize, $921,380; Delaware, $970,802; Ottawa, $994,149; Perry, $966,819; Hardin, $952,863; Shelby, $934,784; Mercer, $929,949; Highland, $947,755; Jackson, $1,173,180; Preble, $953,657; Van Wert, $812,255; Champaign, $1,081,987; Geauga, $1,120,082; Williams, $910,153.

Last year, revenue receipts of the state's 88 counties totaled $239,203,234. In 1947 they were $114,846,248. Revenue in 1955 was more than $27 million higher than in 1954. This was the biggest one year increase in the post-war decade.

NON-REVENUE statewide receipts, such as the proceeds of bond sales and money collected for other local governments, amounted to an additional $57,156,647.72. With a balance of $67,810,413.43 from the previous year, the 88 counties had a total of $364,170,295.77 in cash available.

Franklin D. Sharp, who is being held under $2,000 bond, is accused of breaking and entering at an Ashville service station, and also petty larceny.

The accusations are based on a break-in last April 23. Sharp was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff.

Two other cases were also reported by city court today. Charles Ray Loar, 20, of Ashland, Ky., was fined $10 and costs for driving left of center. He was arrested by State Patrolman Gene Miller.

Neola R. Fogler, 28, of Circleville, was fined $10 and costs for driving left of center. She was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Walter Richards.

RICHARDS reported that her car sideswiped a machine driven by Mary F. Danner, 29, of Adelphi. The accident occurred about 3:45 p. m. Monday eight miles east of Circleville, on Shoemaker Rd., near the intersection of State Route 159. A passenger in the Danner car, Lillie Bellingsley, 27, was treated for an injured arm.

Die Makers Agree To New Contract

CINCINNATI — Production resumed today at the Electric Auto-Lite plant in nearby Evendale after the end of a two-week strike by tool and die makers.

The 150 strikers, members of the International Assn. of Machinists, agreed yesterday to accept a new one-year contract.

Plant officials asked employees to forego wage hikes for a year, and said the facility lost money for 2 1/2 years. The alternative, they said, might be permanent closing of the plant.

Construction Work OK'd If Strike Hits

CLEVELAND — Officers of the steelworkers union plan to follow the 1952 policy of letting construction work proceed if there is a steel strike, a district director says.

B. W. Ohler, director of the union's District 28, addressed the leaders of 22 locals on general plans for strike activity.

Motorist To Be Questioned Soon On Details Of One-Car Accident

A 35-year old Clarksburg motorist, seriously injured when his car crashed into a building near Williamsport, may soon be questioned for details needed to fill out the story of the accident.

The motorist, James Dordrill, was reported "getting along all right" today in University Hospital, Columbus. He was taken there after the accident, which occurred last Saturday night.

Scene of the crash is 11 miles west of Circleville on the Williamsport-Chillicothe Pike, 48 feet north of the Pennsylvania railroad crossing.

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff quoted eyewitnesses as saying that Dordrill was driving at high speed and blowing the car's horn just prior to the crash.

ACCORDING to the sheriff's department, the driver applied his brakes and the car skidded 213 feet before it hit the tracks of the railroad crossing. Then it skidded for an additional 48 feet and crashed into the southeast corner of the Heffner Grain Company building.

Dordrill suffered a fractured skull, deep cuts of the head and one arm, and brain concussion. Sheriff Charles Radcliff said questioning of Dordrill had been delayed because of his serious condition. The driver was knocked unconscious in the crash.

A section of the building's brick foundation was damaged and the car was demolished.

Dordrill suffered a fractured skull, deep cuts of the head and one arm, and brain concussion. Sheriff Charles Radcliff said questioning of Dordrill had been delayed because of his serious condition. The driver was knocked unconscious in the crash.

After Brooding, Woman Kills Mate

COLUMBUS — A 63-year-old Columbus woman told police she lay all night beside her husband in bed brooding about an argument, then got up early today and shot him to death.

Police said Mrs. Mary Heen Toe admitted shooting her husband, William, 69, a boiler room attendant, in the back. She said her husband had struck her in the face last night after an argument.

When officers arrived they found Mrs. Toe sitting calmly in a room adjoining the bedroom. She was being held in city prison for investigation of homicide.

Cincinnati Medic Dies At Age 104

CINCINNATI — Dr. Phillip Zenger, the city's oldest citizen and one of the founders of charter government in Cincinnati, died yesterday at his home. He was 104.

He retired in 1947 after 60 years of practice and teaching neurology and psychiatry at the University of Cincinnati. He never boasted about his age and had no recipe for a long life.

U.S. Northwest Keeps Eye On Its Big Future

Atomic Power Studied As Area Watches Its Industrial Troubles

By SAM DAWSON
SEATTLE (AP) — The Pacific Northwest—long known for abundance of water power—now is eyeing the atom even as it calls for more "bathtubs."

The region expects to grow industrially so much and so steadily that the time will come when nuclear energy will help meet the demand for electric power.

That time won't be tomorrow or probably for many years. But the power companies are studying nuclear plants today—and also keeping an eye on the steady approach of the natural gas pipeline from New Mexico.

They struggle meantime with their perennial problems: Public vs. private utilities; disputes with the fishing industry and sports fishermen who contend that power dams imperil the salmon runs, criticism from nature lovers who fear loss of scenic and recreational attractions at dam sites; and the need for more giant "bathtubs" in which to store the spring run-offs.

The immediate worry of the power companies now: Will the water supply this fall be enough to meet the expected peak power load in December, or must they turn to more expensive steam plants? If the water supply falls too low, aluminum and chemical plants will lose some of their cheap electrical energy for a time this fall.

Part of the trouble will be from the delay, due to the Westinghouse Electric strike, in the scheduled installation of five generators at the new Chief Joseph dam on the Columbia River. Miller Evans, deputy director of operations and maintenance of the Bonneville Power Administration, hopes that "generation at Chief Joseph will be back on schedule by next year."

But L. E. Karrer, vice president of Puget Sound Power & Light, says the fall problem is always with the utilities — it depends in last analysis on the weather. Right now the Columbia River is dropping from flood stage in spots. By late fall it will be low. After that, how much water they dare use depends on how much rain may fall.

Byron L. Price, assistant administrator of Bonneville Power Administration, says future power demands in the Northwest call for 45 new projects in addition to those already licensed or under construction. This would mean spending "at the rate of one million dollars a day—indeinitely."

Jack D. Stevens, engineer for the Puget Sound Utilities Council, says that the industrially growing area within a 100-mile radius of Seattle alone should add about $4 million kilowatts of new generating capacity in the next seven years on the basis of foreseeable demand.

Karrer and Stevens stress that there are still untapped water sources in the basin sufficient to provide the needs of the next decade or so. And they expect to do the job, despite some tough obstacles.

Besides those already named, these include: The rising cost of building dams and generating plants—about double what it was when many of the present plants were built—and often times the difficulty with farmers, railroads, lumber interests and others in obtaining sites for dams and reservoirs.

Blue was specified as the color for United States Army uniforms on March 27, 1821.

Men's Attire Of The Future Said To Be One-Piece Suit

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hey, gents, difference. It's so designed that it looks as if you have on the usual pants, belt, shirt and tie. All of these elements are simulated in the design, yet it fits loosely and zips up the front in a jiffy. For more formal wear, there's a matching coat, itself simplified. No superfluous lapels, no pockets to bulge, no cuff buttons.

The one-piece suit for males has been proposed before, but it is getting a big push by Sy Devore, Hollywood's hotshot haberdasher who has a wealth of film names in his clientele.

"It's the ideal suit of the future," Devore expounded in his Vine Street salon. "With life moving so fast, men need clothes they can put on in a hurry and wear comfortably.

"And it's great for traveling. It's made out of a new material created from wood chips by the Swiss. You just put it in the washing machine, hang it up and it's ready to wear the next morning. It needs no pressing and it wears almost indefinitely.

"I made a couple up for Vic Damone, and he was crazy about them. Bill Holden saw them and wanted one for his trip to Russia, though I couldn't get it done in time. Jerry Lewis is all for them; I made a pair for his trip to New York."

Devore's price to the film names: $135 a copy. But he thinks the price to the public could be around $45 when they're mass-produced.

Fawcett Is First Educator To Be Ohio State President

COLUMBUS (AP) — Dr. Novice Fawcett, named Monday to succeed Dr. Howard Bevis as president of Ohio State University, is the first professional educator to head the big institution.

In the past, the ministry, and law have prominently figured in the backgrounds of the men who have headed the university since its inception in 1873.

Three of the seven were lawyers and three ministers. The seventh gave up a study of theology to become a geologist.

Six of Ohio State's chief administrators have been native sons. The only "foreigner" was first president Edward Orton, New York born geologist who later moved to Ohio. Orton had served one year as president of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, when he accepted the position of president of the newly established Ohio Agricultural and Mechanical College which opened its doors in Columbus in 1873 to 17 students.

During his eight years as head of the struggling land grant college, Orton also filled in as a professor of geology—a position he held for 10 years after resigning the presidency. Orton Hall, housing the university's department of geology, was named in his honor.

Dr. Orton's successor was the Rev. Walter Quincy Scott, a native of Dayton and a Civil War veteran. Elected in 1881, he resigned two years later as a result of public criticism of the lack of compulsory religious exercises at the school.

For the third president, the trustees chose another Ohioan, another minister and another Scott. Dr. William Henry Scott (no relation to his predecessor) was a native of Athens County and a graduate of Ohio University. An ordained Methodist minister, Dr. Scott was serving as president of his alma mater when he was chosen to head OSU.

When he began his 12-year term in 1883, the university had an enrollment of 355 students, many of whom bitterly resented the dismissal of Rev. Walter Scott.

The new president, however, rode out the storm of religious controversy and student resentment to lead the university into its first great period of material prosperity.

Dr. James Hulme Canfield was the first lawyer to serve as president. He was born in Delaware, Ohio, and reared in New York City where his father was an Episcopal rector.

He practiced law for nine years in Michigan, served 14 years on the faculty of the University of Kansas and four years as chancellor of Nebraska University before becoming Ohio State's fourth president. Before his resignation in 1899, his aggressive techniques for promoting OSU's growth pushed its enrollment to over 1,000.

Ohio State's fifth president was another minister, Dr. William O'Leary Thompson. His 26-year term from 1899 to 1925 is the longest in the university's history.

Dr. Thompson was born in Cambridge. He worked his way through Muskingum College by tutoring and working as a janitor and farm hand.

Dr. Thompson's successor was an Ohio State alumnus. President George Washington Rightmire was the son of a Lawrence County charcoal foundryman. He taught country schools in the Portsmouth area for four years after graduating from high school to get enough money to go to Ohio State.

Dr. Rightmire was a Phi Beta Kappa and had been a member of the OSU football team. He was on the faculty of the university's college of law when he was named to succeed Dr. Thompson. He served as president for 13 years. Ohio State's retiring president, Dr. Howard L. Bevis, was born and raised in Hamilton County. He is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati, class of 1908.

He was a professor of government and law in the graduate school of business administration at Harvard University when he was asked to return to his native state as Ohio State's seventh president.

Prior to his job at Harvard, Bevis was a professor of law at the University of Cincinnati and in 1933 was appointed an associate justice of the Ohio Supreme Court to fill an unexpired term.

Under Bevis the university had its greatest expansion, reaching a peak enrollment of 25,400 in 1947.

U.S. Scientist Confirms Discovery Of Ancient Bones

ROME (AP) — An American scientist has confirmed here that bones found in the soft coal of a long-abandoned central Italian mine have been identified definitely as a 10-million-year-old pre-man. He's called oreopithecus.

The find may help paleontologists chart more accurately the evolution of man.

By contrast with the 10-million-year-old oreopithecus, the earliest known ancient men are mere newcomers. The Java and Peking men go back no more than 300,000 years. Australopithecus, the so-called "southern ape" found in South Africa, dates back half a million to a million years.

"We struck pay dirt a week and a half ago in the recently reopened lignite mine at Bacinello," said Dr. Helmut de Terra of Columbia University, New York, who is heading the search for fossils of the pre-man.

He said finds, almost daily since then, had provided 30 to 40 pieces of coal filled with the yellow bone fossils.

The bones already identified include ribs, fragments of vertebra and either a part of a jawbone or the entire jawbone.

Dr. De Terra said the part just ting out of the coal chunk was a chin with broken teeth showing.

"It is definitely oreopithecus," he said. He described the creature of a chimpanzee and a gorilla and said it was "the most human-like fossil of that antiquity."

Fossils found in the first 10 days have been taken to Switzerland by Dr. Johannes Herxler, of the Basel Museum of Natural History. At Basel, experts will remove the bones from the lignite in which they are embedded.

Dr. De Terra said the scientists have every reason to hope that many more bones will be found, perhaps enough to assemble a complete skeleton.

A complete skeleton of oreopithecus was found at the old Bacinello mine in 1869, almost a century ago. That was the first and only such skeleton ever found. Miners did not know what it was. Only the skull was sent to Florence. The rest was lost. In a Florence museum, the skull disintegrated to dust. Science was left with only a description of it.

"Now, for the first time," Dr. De Terra said, "geologists and paleontologists have seen the fossils taken from the actual site, and know exactly the strata they come from."

Drunk Driver's Check Also Shaky

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — James T. Jones pleaded guilty to drunk driving June 7. Municipal Judge Joseph A. Sprinkle Jr. suspended a 180-day sentence but fined him $210.

Jones gave the court a check for $110 and got an okay to pay the balance over a period of time.

Monday Jones was back in court. Judge Sprinkle not only reinstated the original 180 days but added 180 more because Jones' check bounced.

Husband-Slayer Is Freed On Bond

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mrs. Kathryn Troper, charged with manslaughter in the shooting of her husband, Police Chief Ray Troper of suburban Lyndhurst, was free today after friends put up $1,000 bond.

Mrs. Troper, 25, mother of a 4-year-old boy and expecting another child in three months, admitted she shot her husband last June 16 during an argument.

Lausche Hopes Ohio Surplus To Be Retained In Treasury

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Frank J. Lausche says he hopes none of the state treasury surplus will go toward repaying local governments for a revenue loss.

That loss came recently when court decisions knocked out a state tax on federal securities held by financial institutions.

Lausche Monday took an indirect approach to notify the Legislature of his hope in a letter opposing a proposed two million dollar state appropriation to help finance the 1959 Pan-American Games in Cleveland.

In the letter to Cleveland Councilman Joseph E. Flannery, Lausche said no one can legally make such a commitment except the Legislature.

There is presently talk, which I hope is not translated into a reality, that a part of the surplus will be used instead of compelling the financial institutions to replace the tax to restore the losses of $12,300,000 suffered by local governments through the adverse court decisions," Lausche said.

Bills which will be presented to a special session of the Legislature Thursday noon will propose that the state appropriate enough money to meet local governments' tax losses, then recoup about half that amount through a special tax for two years.

The letter was released by the governor's office during his absence in attending the governors' conference at Atlantic City. Lausche wrote:

"While it is true that if the revenues in the next year continue as they have in the past, Ohio will have 80 million dollars in the treasury in excess of the anticipated taxes, there is no question in my mind that while the sum seems liberal, the fixed financial obligations established by the last General Assembly, but delayed in their operative date, will require for fulfillment more than the 80 million dollars."

3 Men Indicted For FHA Frauds

CLEVELAND (AP) — Three men from Canton were named in indictments returned Monday by a federal grand jury after an investigation of frauds in obtaining FHA loans.

The company involved was the Harshone Co., Inc.

Its president, Harry Schoenberg, 50, and two salesmen, George F. Yeager, 49, and Thomas Smith, 59, were indicted.

James J. Carroll, assistant district attorney, said about $150,000 worth of loans guaranteed by the FHA were involved. An FBI investigation showed, he said, that the company built small cottages financed by loans which were approved only for construction of utility garages.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Six years ago, when I was aged 10 and my sister 8, we were taken from my mother, due to her neglect of us, and given to the custody of my aunt and uncle. Aunt Nan taught us to cook, clean, garden, etc., and we gradually assumed more tasks until finally we were doing most of the housework.

Later my aunt had an operation to remove a tumor; and, after her return from the hospital, she never resumed any domestic responsibilities, except going after supplies that my uncle needs in his shop work. And she became bossy and dictatorial, even telling us how to spend an allowance that was given to us to teach us how to manage money.

While learning how to run a house, I was also progressing in school—which I entered at the age of 10, without previous education except knowing how to read. I started as a third grader; worked up to the fifth by the end of that year; took three grades in stride the next year, and was ready for high school. In my freshman year I made all A's, and as a sophomore my marks were A and B-plus.

Now, at 16, I've never had a date, nor been anywhere except with my parents or uncle and aunt. The doctor says I should get out more, and Aunt Nan said I could, but she makes such a fuss I don't try any more.

A few years ago she wasn't that way, but now she won't let me bake, sew, wash my hair or do anything (except clean house) without asking her first. Nor can I sew until my housework, gardening, summer study and any task she wants done are finished. When finally I am ready to sew, she has to supervise every detail of handling the material I paid for.

I don't know what to do, or how to act around my aunt any more; for no matter what I say, she claims I am "talking back" to her. And she has so many rules that one can't remember them all, to carry them out; nor make a move, without seeming to disobey.

Maybe I am doing something wrong, or maybe I am too immature to understand her motives; but I do know that she wasn't like this at first. Please tell me what to do.

B.L.

DEAR B.L.: Any fair-minded adult, reading this story, will recognize you as a humble, conscientious victim of circumstances — and your aunt as a bully and a slacker, with a bad conscience nowadays. She is taking mean advantage of your dependent situation and minor-age status, as she well knows.

It is quite significant that she has become increasingly hard on you since her return from the hospital, and subsequent failure to resume her proper share of household responsibilities. What ails her is this: (1) The more she indulges her laziness, the less she has to do—except pick on you, (2) The more she mistreats you (in her words and actions), the guiltier she feels, in the depths of her soul—which makes her angrily defensive, and defensive, in dealing with you. Ripe for trouble, in short.

As for what to do, to help and protect yourself—I feel that you need a friend in authority, to whom you might turn for understanding, and who would help you keep your thinking straight; and who might even become your champion in arguing the case with your aunt, to ask a decent break for you.

There aren't any special advisory resources in your town; but it occurs to me that the probate judge (who presumably handled your custodial arrangement) would be a logical person to explore your teen-age rights for you. Or you might inquire at the Child Training Institute there (in operation very recently), for a psychol-

County Follows State Pattern In Salary Rise

Salaries and wages paid to all county officials and county employees in Ohio in 1955 amounted to $80,656,793, State Auditor James A. Rhodes announced, following an analysis of annual financial reports submitted to him by 88 county auditors.

This was an increase of $6 million over the 1954 payroll; more than double the $36,873,110 paid 10 years ago.

Pickaway County followed the 100 percent increase pattern over the 10-year period. In 1946, Pickaway County paid out $162,228 in salaries and wages—amounting to $6 per capita (for each person in the county) on the basis of the preceding census.

Last year, this county paid $407,267 in salaries and wages, amounting to $13.87 per capita for 1955.

ASHLAND County shows the lowest 1955 per capita cost of county payrolls, $6.92, with Lorain County just one cent higher. In 1954 Lorain County reported the lowest per capita cost in the state. This is arrived at by dividing the 1950 census figures into the total amount spent in a county for salaries and wages.

Pike County showed the highest per capita cost of county payrolls in 1955 with $19.03. Campaign was next with $16.59.

Among the biggest 10 counties in population, Lorain was lowest with $6.93, followed by Stark, $8.30; Cuyahoga, $8.81, and Montgomery, $8.91.

Reversing the general trend toward bigger payrolls were 20 counties which reported less spending for salaries and wages in 1955 than in 1954.

GOP Is Aroused As Lausche Pricks Top Bender Argument

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Frank J. Lausche's hint that he might help Republicans organize the U.S. Senate if he were elected to that body has set off a barrage of criticism from Ohio GOP leaders.

Ray Bliss, chairman of the Republican State Committee, said Monday Lausche is "frantically attempting to grab on to President Eisenhower's coattails."

He referred to Lausche's statement at the governors conference in Atlantic City that he does not know whether he would vote with the Democrats to organize the U.S. Senate if he is elected to that body next November.

The statement raised the possibility that Lausche might help the Republicans organize the Senate and tended to undermine one of the chief campaign arguments of Lausche's Republican opponent, Sen. George H. Bender.

"His statement was a typical, double-meaning Lausche statement," said Bliss. "He doesn't say he will and he doesn't say he won't. He has used the same technique before."

Bliss continued: "When Sen. Burton resigned from the U.S. Senate to accept a position on the Supreme Court bench, and again, when Sen. Robert Taft died, both Republicans, Gov. Lausche in each instance appointed a Democrat to succeed them after leading the public to believe he might appoint Republicans."

"In 1948, he urged the election of President Truman. In 1951, he urged President Truman to be a candidate for re-election in 1952. In 1952 he supported the Democratic nominee, Stevenson, for president."

"Now by a statement full of innuendo, Lausche is frantically attempting to grab on to President Eisenhower's coattails. He appar-

Lengthy Writing Job Ahead Of Boy

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Franklin W. West, 17, has to write "I will never use a Hollywood muffler again" 3,000 times.

The youth, accused of using an illegal muffler on his car, was first sentenced by Magistrate Raymond I. Harris to write the sentence 1,000 times.

West came back with 20 sheets of notepaper but the magistrate discovered it was not all filled in the same handwriting. He tripled the sentence and told West to do the writing in the courtroom.

West admitted two girls helped him the first time because they "felt sorry for me."

Capital Tourists To Get Assistance

WASHINGTON (AP) — General Services Administration has come up with an answer to end what it described as the tourist's "bewildering search for a building's name or the identity of its occupants."

It announced approval of a uniform system under which federal buildings will be identified with metal plaques or lettering placed just above eye level near the main entrance.

F. Moran McConihe, commissioner of public buildings, said the system results from a suggestion by Rep. Oliver P. Bolton (R-Ohio).

Bolton protested last April that many persons not familiar with Washington are often lost or puzzled by the lack of identification on federal office buildings.

TRAINING "GIFTED" PUPILS

SPECIAL CLASSES FOR "highly gifted" or "exceptional" children have proved very successful in St. Louis. Other cities also have done considerable work in providing special instruction for youngsters who have high I.Q. ratings. Portland, Ore., schools are conducting an extensive experiment along this line with Ford Foundation money. A report on the latter is expected some time next year.

The trend to providing "enrichment" of education for bright children developed as it was found that "progressive" education methods tended to pitch normal classroom instruction at the learning level of the slowest pupil, at worst, or the "median" pupil, at best.

As a result, the 10 to 20 per cent of each class which can absorb teaching rapidly, find themselves with nothing to do while "slow" children catch up. It means time wasted for these children in which they could be developing special skills; it also means bad study for them because they are not being pushed to develop fully.

Two answers to this are being tried:

ONE—Use of special "segregated" classes or "brain rooms" as they are called in St. Louis, which offer instruction at the speed of the individual child and offer special classes in language, math, art, etc.

TWO—The "enrichment" of curriculum without segregating the bright youngsters from the slower pupils. This takes the form of special reading, science projects, research projects and development of fields in which the interests of the individual pupil lie.

Advocates of the latter plan contend that if leaders of a class are segregated then they don't have the chance to develop leadership of the average group.

MALE VANITY

SURPRISING statistics continue to be dished out by the government at Washington, and among the most flabbergasting are those contained in a Census Bureau survey which reveals that, for the first time since beauty parlors began to flourish, men are paying out more money for beauty from the neck up than women.

Barbers took in $500,000,000 — take or give a few dollars—in 1953, while beauty shops grossed $487,000,000—ditto—during the 12 months. These figures represent a 24 per cent and 19 per cent increase, respectively, over 1948 totals. The government does not interpret its surveys, but one theory is that home permanents are responsible for male beauty expenditures passing those of the ladies.

What makes these figures surprising is the decline of an old American institution, the barber shop shave. Men who have their shaving needs attended to by a barber, once numerous, are relatively rare today.

Apparently this is additional proof that statistics are more reliable than popular impressions. Most men certainly would have expressed the opinion that women spend larger sums in beauty parlors than men do in barber shops.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

One of the most serious problems facing the united AFL-CIO is whether it is to go the American Federation of Labor road or the C.I.O. road. In any merger of two organizations as different in philosophy and history, one is likely to predominate, although it is usually hoped that a compromise, a middle-of-the road way will be found.

The election of George Meany to the Presidency of the AFL-CIO gave the impression that the American Federation of Labor concept would prevail, which would mean that American organized labor would be anti-Communist not only in the United States but throughout the world and particularly in international labor organizations.

The 20th Congress of the Communist Party of Soviet Russia has made a considerable difference in attitude among labor leaders, even anti-Communist labor leaders. This Congress was a major propaganda effort designed to weaken resistance to Russia on the part of socialists, liberals and labor leaders throughout the world.

Too many of such persons are weary of the constant quarrels inside the labor movement between those who are pro-Communist and those who are anti-Communist and those who stand in between and do not know where to go. Therefore, they have been willing to accept Khrushchev's anti-Stalinism, if not as a sincere statement, at any rate as one that serves their purpose.

Some may wonder why it took Khrushchev so long to discover the evils of Stalin, but the general attitude is that it is better to let the record stand that Stalin was no good and Khrushchev said it.

The result in the AFL-CIO is that there is some criticism of George Meany's intense and forthright pro-Americanism and anti-Communism and there is some leaning toward Walter Reuther's socialistic attitude which is more conciliatory.

For instance, a letter from George Meany to K. Prasas Tripathi, General Secretary of the Indian National Trade Union Congress, has been widely distributed in American labor circles. This letter contains the following paragraph:

"Brother Tripathi, I hope that you now realize how illadvised you were to condemn my appeal to liberals, like Prime Minister Nehru, to take the lead in the struggle against Communism.

You know better than I do that the Soviet despots Khrushchev and Bulganin flagrantly violated elementary international ethics and abused the hospitality of your country when they exploited its Parliament as a platform from which to vilify the very democratic forces which have been and continue to be most helpful to the people of India in their splendid efforts to build a strong and prosperous democracy—a democracy which will be a great source of hope and freedom throughout Asia."

Whereas this was written before Khrushchev's attack on Stalin, it is a correct position and nothing has happened to require changing a word of it. Nevertheless, Reuther went to India, praised everything he saw and heard and came away with flowers in his hair. Reuther is regarded in the labor world as planning to be George Meany's successor and not in the too distant future. Meany also said in this letter:

CHAPTER 15

IT WAS strange to wake to the song of birds, early-morning sunlight and the fragrance of flowers blooming just outside the windows.

Rita had an impulse to get up and get outside. Could she get out without disturbing Priscilla? Should she advise Priscilla about disposing of the property, or let the decision be entirely her own? It seemed the logical thing to go ahead and accept the offer Alvarez had made. Yet it seemed strange that the man was so anxious to get the property now, when it had been standing vacant so long. Mr. Todd had explained that by saying the property could not be put on the market until the heir was found. It was after their visit to Lookout House that Alvarez had come to Mr. Todd with his offer. How had he known Mr. Todd was "handing it"? Had he seen them at the property? And what about the money she had found? No one had answered the advertisement.

The slight bite in the air made her think of coffee. She got out of bed quietly and went to the kitchen to put the coffee pot. By the time she had slipped into black woolen slacks and a white sweater, rebranded her hair and wrapped it around her head, the coffee was ready. She poured herself a cup and carried it outside, being careful to stay on the narrow walk to avoid the heavy dew. She broke off in her thoughts on seeing a car stop.

"Hi," Bill called. "I didn't know vacationists got up so early. Come over and say good morning."

Rita walked over to the car. "It isn't early. Must be all of seven. I might ask the same of you. Aren't you early—for a writer?"

"It's late for me. I've already been out fishing. I like the early mornings. That coffee smells good. . . . Would you have another cup of it handy?" His smile was whimsical.

Rita thought, I could like him if he didn't antagonize me. She said pleasantly, "There's a potful—but I can't ask you in. It's really a dollhouse. And Priscilla is still sleeping. But I'll get you a cup."

"Tell you what. Leave the coffee for Priscilla and come with me. We'll ride over to Maud's and get breakfast. I take it you haven't had yours?" Reading refusal in her eyes, he added coaxingly, "It's a nice ride over the bridge in the early morning."

Rita shook her head. "Priscilla will awaken and wonder where I am. But I'll be glad to get you a cup of coffee."

"Leave her a note," Bill urged. "It isn't often that I ask a lady to breakfast."

"You tempt me. Give me two minutes to write the note." Bill would have laughed had he seen the note Rita left. "Wonder of wonders! I've gone to breakfast with the red Buick. Coffee's made. Back soon."

She threw a soft white coat around her shoulders, tucked a red hosiery in her hair, and went out. "You're quite fetching in that outfit," Bill said, his eyes moving over her approvingly. "With that red flower in your black hair, your eyes like velvet pansies, you look like a senorita."

Rita thought, There he goes again, trying to link me with that Spaniard Alvarez. She said cheerfully, "Thanks for the compliment."

Bill was right. The ride across the causeway was exhilarating in the fresh morning air. Sunlight sparkled on the water. Gulls wove intricate patterns above the boats.

"Oh, there's that beautiful yacht!" said Rita. "Doesn't it gleam in the sun? Like silver and gold."

"I think I asked you last night if you had met Alvarez."

"You did," Rita said smoothly. "Do you know him?"

"I haven't met him yet. Dick Devereaux says he thinks he can get an invite for me to a party Alvarez is planning soon."

"You're really interested in that boat," she said.

"Could be," Bill said, and added, "Let's say curious, instead."

He probably expected her to ask why he was curious, but she didn't. "I think Doc was quite smitten by your little friend," he said.

"Why afraid of that?"

"Not really, of course. And then he's not really smitten, as you call it. He's in love with the little girl we met at Maud's last night, isn't he?"

"Peggy Pomeroy? I think he is. Although having been in Apalachicola such a short time, I can't say how serious it is. It seems to be an accepted fact here that Peggy can have either one of them, Dick or Pete Craig."

"I was afraid of that."

DIET AND HEALTH

Take These Precautions When You Go Swimming

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

If you don't know how to swim, I suggest that you learn as quickly as possible. For swimming is not only a relaxing sport, it is a good body builder as well.

It provides mental relaxation, muscular activity and encourages body coordination. Buoyancy of the water, you see, gives your body a sensation of having greater muscular strength than you actually have.

Therapeutic Value
This is one reason why swimming and exercise in supervised pools is usually recommended for its therapeutic value in rehabilitating persons suffering such conditions as polio and arthritis.

While swimming is fun and beneficial in most instances, there are a few precautions some of you should take.

If you have a perforated eardrum or a discharging ear, don't try to swim. If you are subject to other ear difficulties, better check with your physician before taking a dip.

Keep Water Out

Even though you may be in the best of health, keep as much water as possible out of your nose and throat.

Practice in learning how to breathe in through your mouth and out through your nose is much more important than learning some fancy stroke.

Don't blow your nose violently to remove the water. Blow it gently, making sure that both nostrils are never pressed tightly. This will help keep mucus out of the eustachian tubes.

Safe Water

Try to swim in clean, safe water. Water in which you bathe should be just as free from germs as water you drink.

Always shower or bathe thoroughly upon leaving the water. Then dry yourself briskly with a towel. Rub good and hard. This will help remove any parasites which may cause swimmer's itch.

For those of you swimming in the oceans, remember the sting of a jelly-fish, especially that of the Portuguese man-of-war type, can be dangerous. To allergic individuals, it might even be fatal.

Mr. Knowledge Keeps Busy

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—A London author writing a play about Jesus Christ recently wanted to find out what day of the week the Savior had been born.

He turned for help to Hugo Dunn-Meynell, known as Britain's "Mr. Knowledge."

Dunn-Meynell is managing director of an unusual firm called "Finders Limited," which for a fee will ferret out information for a client or perform any odd job so long as it is legal and moral.

He and his 25 assistants pored over hundreds of volumes of biblical scholarship before coming up with this answer: "Jesus probably was born either at Wednesday or Thursday midnight, but we can't go beyond that. Internal evidence within the Bible itself makes it unlikely he could have been born on any other day of the week."

This has been the most interesting of the queries that pour into his firm at the rate of about 200 a week, but there have been many strange ones.

An American, for example, wrote and asked that a hotel bed he had slept in during a stay in London be sent to him.

"I was extremely comfortable," he explained. Finders limited went to the hotel, bought the bed, and shipped it over.

Dunn-Meynell, who is 30, slender and wears a ginger goatee, served in the Royal Navy and studied law before launching his unique career. It has taken him to most parts of the world, and he is now making a 13,000-mile trip around America.

His organization is geared for emergencies. Once it had to charter a car and race 35 miles to deliver a pair of forgotten false teeth to a British lady executive in time for her to make a speech to her stockholders.

It takes in stride weird requests to locate such items as an elephant's foot, a prerevolutionary recording of the old Russian national anthem, or a null-nulla, which is an Australian throwing stick.

Once a horrified gentleman phoned for aid in a terrible personal dilemma. In sending some flowers he had gotten the cards mixed. The one he had sent to a funeral read "many happy returns of the day." The one he had sent to his lady friend read "with deepest sympathy." Finders Limited saved the day for him by dispatching an agent to the cemetery who changed the card before the mourners arrived.

"Our clients keep us on our toes," said Dunn-Meynell. "We never know what we'll be asked to do next."

Not long ago he had a hurry-up call from the Family Planning Assn. of Great Britain for toads, which are used in pregnancy tests.

He put an ad in "The Times" reading "300 male toads urgently needed"—and they flooded in from all parts of the English countryside.

His fees range from about 65 cents for a simple request for information up to $500 to make a market study of, say, the commercial possibilities of chocolate flavored toothpaste in Arabia.

Beautiful summer days tempt us to enjoy them to the fullest—and to many of us that means asking friends to share our hospitality. If you want to treat your guests to a royal meal and still have time in the outdoors, serve this festive main-dish salad. Chicken and rice, ever popular party partners, are combined with orange sections and walnuts for taste and texture interest. Of great interest to you, will be the fact that this delicious salad is so quick and easy to prepare when you make it with packaged, pre-cooked rice.

Chicken Salad California
1-1/3 cups (5-ounce package) Minute Rice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1-1/2 cups boiling water
2/3 cup mayonnaise
1/3 cup French dressing
1 teaspoon salt
1/3 teaspoon pepper
1-1/2 cups diced cooked chicken
1 cup diced celery
1 cup drained diced orange sections
1/2 cup coarsely chopped walnuts

Add packaged pre-cooked rice and 1/2 teaspoon salt to boiling water in saucepan. Mix just to moisten all rice. Cover and remove from heat. Let stand 13 minutes. Then uncover and let cool to room temperature.

About 1 hour before serving, combine mayonnaise, French dressing, 1 teaspoon salt, and the pepper, mixing well. Combine chicken, celery, orange sections, and walnuts in a bowl. Stir in the mayonnaise mixture. Then add the rice and mix lightly with a fork. Chill. Serve on crisp lettuce. Makes about 6 cups, or 4 to 6 servings.

Note: If desired, 1 cup drained diced pineapple may be substituted for orange sections.

WASHINGTON (P)—The leaders of the American Communist party, who have acted like arrogant shepherds toward their own members, are still sheep in the Russian pasture. Some of them may be shorn.

There is rising discontent in the party with this leadership which recently confessed to a whole series of disastrous mistakes over the past 10 years and now pretends to be surprised to hear Stalin was a dictator and murderer.

Party members, writing to their newspaper, the Daily Worker, charge dictatorship against the American leaders: directly against the old and ill chairman, William Z. Foster, indirectly against Secretary Eugene Dennis, the real boss, and others.

The leadership itself has conceded the rank-and-file should have more say in the decisions which have been handed down from the top.

The top American Reds had approved every action of Stalin. Dennis recently acknowledged they looked upon Stalin as "infallible." Then Nikita Khrushchev, the Russian Communist boss, put them on the spot.

By revealing Stalin's one-man rule in all its horror, Khrushchev to be self-critical and critical of one another. He left it up to them to figure out how critical.

As if helpless to know what to do or say until they got the clue from Moscow, the American Communist leaders kept silent for months after Khrushchev's revelations. This week the Central Committee finally spoke up.

It raised critical questions about the part played by Russia's new leaders in Stalin's usurpation of power and his crimes. But it did this only after the Italian, French and British Communists had asked the same questions.

"We... are shocked," the committee members said of the revelations. The delay in speaking up made them look afraid to take the lead in criticizing Russia or even knowing what to say or how far to go until others showed the way.

Since it was common knowledge for 20 years that Stalin had one-man rule and slaughtered people, the Central Committee, in saying it was shocked to hear all this, put itself in the position of being considered dumb or hypocritical. No one has accused the Reds of being dumb.

But Dennis himself provided another example of continued subservience to Russia. Almost as if saying, "Oh, thank you, sir," he expressed gratitude to Khrushchev for saying war is not inevitable.

The rank-and-file may be able to swallow the present leaders' history of disasters — the blind obedience to Stalin was not news

Coffee Regains Its Former Rating In Luxury Bracket

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Coffee is in the luxury brackets again. The reason, say spokesmen for the coffee industry, is a "limited supply" of "mild" coffee, which isn't necessarily mild at all, but is a trade term for any coffee grown elsewhere than Brazil.

"Don't say there's a shortage," cautions the coffee man. "That only makes people start hoarding."

The reason for the limited supply, it seems, is the season of heavy rains that occurred about six months ago in Mexico, Colombia and Central America, where most of the world's "mild" coffee supply is grown.

Contributing reasons are increased coffee consumption in the United States and Europe in the last five years.

The coffee people feel that such stringent measures will not be necessary this time. They say if coffee drinkers will just be careful not to waste coffee, the situation will remain well in hand.

The coffee people offer these tips on how to make the most of the coffee you have, and produce a perfect brew:

1. Always have your coffee maker scrupulously clean. Wash it as you would any other pot or pan.
2. If you use only a small amount of coffee at a time, brew only as much as you can use, and use a small coffee maker.
3. Start with fresh, cold water, and observe consistent timing for uniform results.

Serve the coffee as soon as it is made, and don't reheat it.

HERE'S HOW...

MAKE A FLOAT FOR SWIMMING

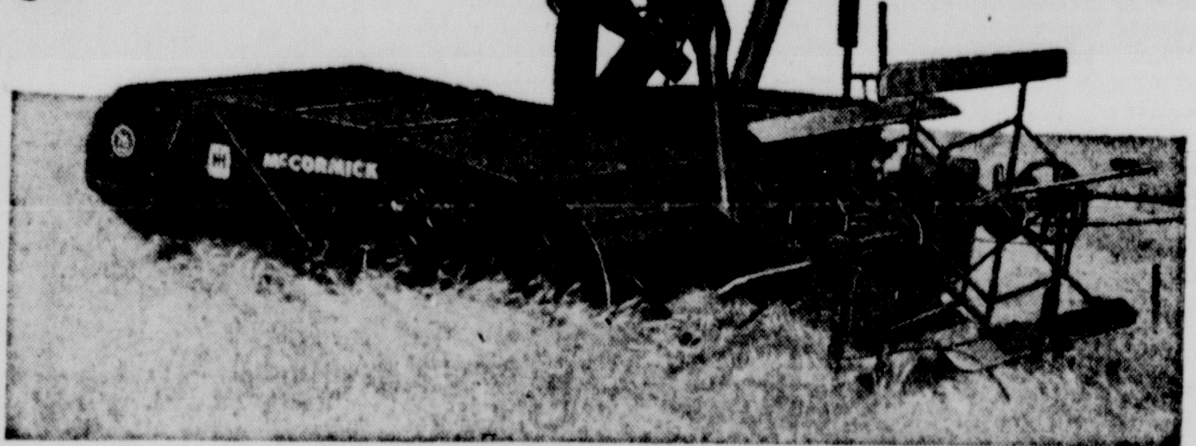

A sturdy float is made of lumber 2 inches thick. First make a frame, as shown, fastening it securely with 8-inch galvanized spikes. Space the floor boards 1/4 inch apart and fasten with 60-penny galvanized nails. Two inside stringers are placed to fit against the drums and are spiked in place. Fasten the ladder to the frame with four 1/2 by 6-inch carriage bolts (with washers beneath both heads and nuts) spaced 2 inches from the top and bottom of the frame. Fasten the drums in place with 1/2 by 2-inch steel straps, fitting snugly against the rings on the oil barrels to prevent slipping. Use 1/4 by 1 1/2-inch lag screws to hold the straps. Add galvanized tie-rings to each corner to complete the float.

leader who will stand up for the United States when it is attacked and who has the courage to show to other peoples a united front with other Americans. Too many of those who go abroad feel that the way to make friends is to praise them even when they vilify our country. Some crave popularity by over-emphasizing American short-comings among other peoples who already have doubts about us.

George Meany, President of AFL-CIO, has not taken that position. In his letter to the Indian labor leader, he painted Khrushchev and Bulganin as the hooligans they are and he spoke of his own country as a patriotic American should. The essence of this situation is the existence of the World Federation of Trade Unions which is Communist-dominated. The pull now is in the direction of the American unions joining this body.

Braves Show A New Hero Every Day

Milwaukee Comeback Linked To Ability For Each Player To Shine

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Picking the big guy in Milwaukee's slightly fantastic comeback in the National League pennant chase is like stepping on ants. Tag one and there are two more to take his place. The Braves simply have a new hero every day.

It was catcher Del Crandall's turn Monday night. His squeeze bunt got the winning run home as the Braves scored three in the ninth inning to beat the Philadelphia Phillies 8-5.

That made it 11 in a row for Milwaukee under Manager Fred Haney. It also retained the Braves' two-game lead as second-place Cincinnati dropped Pittsburgh into fifth place 2-1 and third-place Brooklyn scored two unearned runs to overhaul Chicago's Cubs 3-2.

In the American League, the New York Yankees buried their four-game losing streak under 14 hits, including four home runs, and beat Kansas City 9-3. Washington handed Detroit its ninth straight defeat 5-3 in the only other AL game scheduled.

Since Haney replaced Charlie Grimm 10 days ago, no less than eight Braves have accounted for the winning runs in the 11-game sprint that has led from fifth place to first.

Del Ennis set up Crandall's winning hit Monday night with a three-run homer in the eighth that tied it at 5-all for the Phils. But Logan opened the ninth with a double, went to third on Andy Pafko's bunt and then came flying home on Crandall's laydown. Aaron's sacrifice fly and a single by Thomson got the two extra runs home.

Thomson had 4-for-4, including his 10th homer, and drove in three runs. Mathews also homered, his 12th, as Bob Buhl won his eighth with Warren Spahn pitching the ninth. Stu Miller (3-4) lost it.

The Redlegs stayed in second with their third straight victory, scoring twice in the seventh as Ted Kluszewski hammered his 14th home run and Ray Jablonski hit a sacrifice fly after singles by Frank Robinson and Ed Bailey. Art Fowler won his fifth with a five-hitter. Ron Kline was the loser.

Don Kaiser gave Brooklyn only four hits in his 7 1-3 innings last night, but No. 4 was Junior Gilliam's triple which was sandwiched between two errors and produced the tying and winning run in the eighth. Gilliam's single and Pee-wee Reese's double made it 2-1 in the first after Ernie Banks hit his 16th homer with a man on against Carl Erskine in the Cub first. Erskine won with Clem Labine's help.

Rookie Norm Siebern homered twice for the Yanks, who also had homers from Hank Bauer and Joe Collins as Johnny Kucks won his 10th with a nine-hitter. Yogi Berra ended an 0-for-23 slump with a ninth-inning double while Mickey Mantle went 4 for 5.

Ohio Northern Gets New Coach

left-handed-hitting Clint Courtney in as a pinchhitter against southpaw Billy Hoelt in the eighth and the stubby Nat catcher smacked his second 1956 home run with a man on for a 4-3 lead.

Senor Lopez Says His Team Hitting Now

CLEVELAND (P)—Manager Al Lopez' explanation for the startling reversal in the form of his Cleveland Indians in the past two weeks is a simple one: "A team looks dead when it isn't hitting. A team looks alive when it hits. I knew things would improve for us. We've finally got our regular lineup back in the game. Woodling and Rosen were out for a long time. That made a difference."

Third baseman Al Rosen returned from a three-week layoff caused by an injured knee. Outfielder Gene Woodling, who had suffered dizzy spells, was on the disabled list a month.

In nine games from June 10 the Indians won only one, tied one and lost seven. Then they started their current six-game winning streak, their longest victory skein since the 1954 season.

Tonight they try to extend that streak against the Baltimore Orioles with whom they stand 6-2 for the season to date. Early Wynn (7-4) opposes Oriole righthander Connie Johnson (2-4) who lost a one-hitter to the Chicago White Sox in the last game he hurled.

During its winning string the Tribe has averaged 10 hits a game and collected eight home runs. Outfielder Al Smith has hit safely his last seven times at bat.

For the month of June the Indians upped their puny .239 team batting average by five points. Smith raises his average 13 points to .269, and the two newcomers from the Chicago White Sox, Jim Busby and Chico Carrasquel, increased their averages 15 and 37 points, respectively.

Charles Sime, father of Dave Sime, Duke's sensational sprinter, was a professional baseball and basketball player in Paterson, N. J.

Cleveland Eyes Pan Am Games

CLEVELAND (P)—City Council decided last night to have a seven-man committee study the problems of staging the Pan American Games here in 1959, and then hold on the question of putting a $1 million bond issue on the November ballot.

Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze wanted the council to go ahead on the proposition of submitting the bond issue to the voters. But the councilmen balked at immediate action on that.

Jockey's Earnings Being Tucked Away

STANTON, Del. (P)—Apprentice jockey Reggie Root, one of the highest paid 17-year-olds in the country, gets only $50 a week.

Young Reggie, son of 39-year-old jockey Ralph (Buddy) Root, is the second leading rider at Delaware Park with 19 wins to trail veteran Eldon Nelson by just three firsts.

But no matter how many races he wins, his parents won't let him handle the sudden flood of money. All his earnings over $50 a week will be banked.

High Producing Dairy Cows Prefer Corn And Alfalfa Silage

ROUNDUP

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Research completed at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture indicates that corn silage and alfalfa silage preserved with corn and cob meal are superior to oat silage for high-producing dairy cows.

In an experiment at the university dairy farm, high-producing cows didn't eat as much oat silage as other silages because the oat silage was not so palatable. The result was a loss in weight and a drop in milk flow when cows were switched from either alfalfa or corn silage to oat silage.

The opposite effect was seen when cows went from oat silage to either of the other two silages.

The oat silage was considered to be excellent quality. The oats were cut in the early-dough stage. Had they been harvested for grain, they would have yielded about 85 bushels an acre.

The cows used in the experiment were 12 high-producing Holsteins. They were fed 14 pounds of good quality hay daily throughout the test. All cows got a 15 percent grain mix feed according to their individual production.

Final figures showed that, on the average, cows ate 53 pounds of corn silage, 45 pounds of alfalfa silage and 28 pounds of oat silage daily. In all possible sequences, the silages were fed free choice for five-week periods.

Removing all axillary shoots (suckers) from staked tomato plants can cause excessive fruit cracking.

Research by E. K. Alban at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment station during the past seven years reveals that if these axillary shoots are allowed to develop, fruit cracking can be reduced by as much as 50 to 60 percent.

Alban's suggested pruning procedure for Ohio growers is to remove only the first and second suckers below the first fruit cluster. Then allow all other axillary shoots to develop. The sucker just below the first flower cluster or the one just above will ordinarily develop fairly rapidly and provide a 2 or 3-stem plant.

Carefully tying these stems to the stake will help develop a compact plant with most fruits protected from direct sunlight. Reduced fruit cracking, less sunscald and better fruit color will result from this modified pruning system.

Stories about farm animals infected with tetanus (lockjaw) usually have unhappy endings, says Dr. D. R. Lingard of the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine.

When tetanus germs get into a wound in either man or beast, they produce a deadly poison that causes muscular spasms. These spasms spread through the body and frequently result in death.

You'll be able to notice a stiffness in the leg muscles of the infected animals before the characteristic symptom of tightly closed jaws strikes. Small farm animals that have tetanus are usually found lying on their side, legs outstretched, with ears erect and jaws locked shut.

Horses are the most susceptible to tetanus of all farm animals. Cattle are second in susceptibility, but most cases occur in swine and sheep because routine castrating and tail docking of the young animals give the germs a chance to get into the blood stream.

Umbilical abscesses in newly born animals also present an opportunity for tetanus infection. Cleanliness and good management are the best ways of preventing tetanus.

You can protect valuable animals by having a veterinarian vaccinate them against tetanus. A veterinarian should also be called to treat injuries and to administer tetanus antitoxin to animals suffering from deep or dirty wounds.

Lausche Opposes Federal Controls

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Ohio Gov. Frank J. Lausche has gone on record as being opposed to federal aid to education. Lausche said Monday during a round-table discussion on higher education at the 48th annual governor's conference here that once the federal government obtained "control of the purse strings" it would "have control of the curricula eventually."

Passerby Points To Fire In Home

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Mrs. Martha Welch was sitting on the front porch of an apartment building when a truck driver stopped and asked her:

"Do you know that the third floor is on fire?"

Mrs. Welch looked up and saw flames coming from her apartment. The fire, confined to her quarters, did an estimated $1,250 damage.

Congregation Church, E&R Seen Merging

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—A new vista was open today before Congregational Christians as they surveyed their home-missions landscape, its borders to be widened in a new "United Church of Christ."

As delegates heard reports on the church's schools, colleges, hospitals, race-relations projects and other affairs, attention centered on possibilities ahead in the bigger, combined church.

By an overwhelming vote of 1,310 to 179, the council Saturday gave final approval to plans for the merger with the Evangelical and Reformed Church, the first union of its kind in this country.

"It is a demonstration of a new dimension of church unity," said Dr. Fred Hoskins of Oak Park, Ill., newly-elected "minister" of Congregational Christians, their chief administrative officer.

Dr. James E. Wagner of Philadelphia, president of the E. and R.

strengthening" of both churches. Final approval of the union came in an emotion-packed swirl of both of enthusiasm and apprehension. Opponents fought the plan down to the last, voicing fears that traditional church freedoms would be lost.

The Rev. Malcolm Burton, of Pontiac, Mich., leader of an anti-merger faction, said of the result: "The palace guard and the denominational camp followers may hold their part together, but out in the grass roots, it's different."
